OREGON HAWK IN LEAD

Vote Echoes Viet Debate

. . . MIAMI MAYOR WINS

By The Associated Press

Rep. Robert B. Duncan, cast as the hawk in Oregon's echo of the American debate over Viet Nam, took an early lead Wednesday night in his race to become the Democratic nominee for the Senate.

In the feature race of a four-primary night, Duncan led former Democratic State Chairman Howard Morgan, a harsh critic of the American stand in Southeast Asia.

Duncan, twice elected to the House, supported President Johnson's Viet Nam policy in a campaign which centered on the Asian struggle.

To Face Hatfield

The winner will be matched against Republican Gov. Mark O. Hatfield, whose three challengers in the GOP Senate primary were only names on the ballot.

In the Democratic battle, this was the early picture from 508 of Oregon's 2,946 precincts: Duncan 15,944; Morgan 5,595; Gilbert Meyer 645.

Sen. Maurine Neuberger, a Democrat, set up the battle for the Senate seat when she decided not to run for re-election.

Robert King High, the red-haired mayor of Miami, trounced Gov. Haydon Burns in their battle for the Democratic nomination to become governor of Florida.

Burns, who beat High two years ago, conceded that he had lost the rematch — a bitter struggle marked by his charge that High was the candidate of a Negro bloc vote

High, who campaigned with a promise of government integrity, apparently won lopsided backing in heavily Negro districts. A sampling showed high leads of up to 8-1 in those precincts.

Cooper Vs. Brown

In Kentucky, Republicans renominated Sen. John Sherman Cooper and Democrats chose John Young Brown, a former congressman, to run against him. Both choices were by overwhelming margins.

That set up a November rematch: Cooper and Young, once college classmates, were Senate opponents 20 years ago.

In Oklahoma's runoff primary, Preston Moore, former national commander of the American Legion, bested former Gov. Raymond Gary to win the Democratic nomination for governor. State Sen. Dewey Bartlett of Tulsa beat John N. Happy Camp for the Republican spot on the gubernatorial ballot.

Barry Backer Wins

And Kentucky conservative M. G. Snyder, making a congressional comeback bid, won the Republican House nomination from the newly designed, heavily populated 4th District.

Snyder, who championed Barry Goldwater's cause two years ago but lost his House seat in the Democratic landslide, topped GOP moderate James Thompson and George Ratterman, once a football star, later a sheriff.

In the campaign, liberal-minded Louisville Republicans called Snyder an extremist. Nevertheless, Snyder said his victory was not "for any kind of philosophy," but a win for the GOP organization. was nominated.

Morse Backed Morgan

Democratic Sen. Wayne Morse, the Senate's ranking critic of the war in Viet Nam, campaigned for Morgan and said he would vote for Hatfield in November if Duncan became the Democratic nominee.

Duncan, 45, is a crew-cut veteran of two House terms, and father of seven children.

Campaigning against Morgan, he said the war in Viet Nam is a logical extension of U.S. containment policies aimed at the communist world

"I would prefer not to fight," he said, "but if I must, I will fight and fight to win our objectives and I would rather fight communism on the Mekong than on the Columbia."

Morgan—who served two years on the Federal Power Commission under the late President John F. Kennedy—called secretary of State Dean Rusk "Dean Risk," and described Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara as "a valiant cost accountant."

Viet Spotlight On Defiant Hue

Saigon (AP) — Buddhists carried on defiance of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's regime in the old imperial capital of Hue Wednesday. Five thousand gathered at a pagoda for an anti-government, anti-American demonstration, said reports reaching Saigon.

But there were reports of cracks in the diehard resistance front.

Defense ministry sources said Brig. Gen. Pham Xuan Nhuan, commander of the rebel 1st Vietnamese Division in Hue, cabled that he was resuming allegiance to Ky.

It was not clear whether Nhuan spoke also for his several thousand troops, but there were unconfirmed reports some of the soldiers were changing sides.

Victorious in Da Nang, Ky's government pledged Tuesday to restore order elsewhere in the mutinous northern provinces because "a country that harbors open rebellion cannot survive."

Hue is 400 miles north of Saigon and northwest of Da Nang. Buddhist-led struggle committees still manned barricades in Hue and the city's radio beamed out anti-government propaganda.

To Hold Down Blood

All action against remnants of the uprising will be carried out with a minimum of bloodshed, the government said. Officials concerned with tactics in the political struggle at Hue have leaned toward starving out the town. Loyal troops held positions around the city.

The government's pledge to restore order was contained in an optimistic report to a group of about 1,000 carefully selected representatives of the army, religious sects and political parties called the military and people's congress. Buddhists boycotted the meeting.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge was in the audience.

Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, the chief of state, reiterated that the military regime will carry out its promise for election of a constitutent assembly this fall. He said the 10-man directorate is considering a proposal to add five civilians to its membership.

Marches Orderly

While the congress was meeting, antigovernment students and Buddhists staged orderly marches in Saigon streets. Four hundred, including 150 robed monks, proceeded peacefully before the heavily guarded U.S. embassy to protest the crushing of the Da Nang revolt. The groups were relatively small and the impact limited.

Troops had sealed off the Buddhist Institute, for four days the center of anti-government, anti-American rioting.

In Washington, Secretary of State Dean Rusk took a cautiously optimistic view of the political crisis.

"I think things are settling down a bit in Viet Nam," he said.

Ky gave that impression in a relaxed appearance before the congress.

He said his troops took more than a week to restore order in Da Nang "to avoid bloodshed as much as possible and not to take over the places of worship." He referred to the pagodas from which the rebels finally surrendered Monday

Ky's hour-long speech also included these points:

—The Vietnamese army continues to fight the Viet Cong "to prepare a favorable situation for the elections." But the communists are girding for a rainy season offensive.

—Although the recent political unrest has affected the nation's economy, "statistics show a 50% increase in production and every province has stocks of rice for two to three months."

Smiles

The return of peace after a week of fighting brought smiles to faces in Da Nang. Barred and shuttered during the hostilities, shops opened again for business. People clogged the streets, going about normal chores.

The government installed a Vietnamese paratrooper, Lt. Col. Le Chi Cuong, as mayor of Da Nang to replace Dr. Nguyen Van Man, a foe whom Ky once threatened to execute on a charge — which Man denied—that he was the leader of a communist conspiracy.

Arrested Sunday night, Man is undergoing questioning in Saigon.

SCRAPBOOK 'MUST READING' . . .

Holdrege Library Gets Compliments

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Holdrege—It's a scrap book that is "must reading" these days around this town's three-in-one public library.

The accumulation of clippings and congratulatory letters — even Vice President Humphrey added his sentiments—follows last month's receipt of a $2,500 Dorothy Canfield Fisher Award. Only five other libraries in the nation shared in the 8th annual recognition.

"What thrills us most is all the books we're able to purchase," beamed Barbara Johnson, who heads a staff of seven full-time and seven part-time employes. "The prize money is about half spent already, and altogether we should acquire from 300 to 500 books of lasting value."

Three Functions

No stranger to publicity, the recently-modernized facility combines three functions under its triple title of Phelps County Library, Holdrege Carnegie Library and South-Central Regional Library Headquarters. The latter was the pilot project of more than a dozen regional operations now established in the state.

"Perhaps more than any single factor, we feel it was the variety of services that brought the award," reflected Mrs. Donald D. Noble, board of trustees president. "For about 20 years. for example, Holdrege's was the only Nebraska library outside Omaha which operated a Bookmobile."

Two of the local traveling units now serve five counties, popularizing such special services as record and film loans. A spacious Community Room is among the town's busiest meeting sites, there are art exhibits and story hours, a TWX installation provides quickie inter-library loans.

State's Fifth

Selected by a committee of the American Library Association in consultation with the Book-of-the-Month Club, Holdrege became Nebraska's fifth recipient in the eight years of recognition. Previously honored were Orleans, Sidney, Hastings and Thedford's Lower Sandhills Regional libraries.

The ceremonious presentation was made April 17 by Mrs. Bennett Martin of Lincoln, chairman of Nebraska National Library Week. Principal speaker was author Lois Phillips Hudson of Boulder, Colo.

Understandably rating a special place of honor in the new scrap book is the message from the vice president.

Humphrey commented, "I recall from my own youth what an inspiration . . . what knowledge they provided, opening whole new vistas."

House Argues Wages

. . . MARTIN'S CONTENTION RIDICULED

Washington (UPI) — Opponents of legislation to increase the national minimum wage, including Rep. Dave Martin, R-Neb., charged that it would drive small businessmen to the wall and put unskilled workers in the street.

Supporters replied that they had been listening to the same predictions for 28 years and they never came true.

These arguments opened two days of House debate on a bill that would raise the present $1.25 hourly minimum wage to $1.60 by Feb. 1, 1968, for 29.6 million workers now under the wage-hour law and provide coverage for 7.2 million new workers.

Much GOP Support

The bill, which would provide the fourth round of wage floor increases since the fair labor standards act of 1938, had solid endorsement from President Johnson and more Republican backing than any such proposal in the past.

"It is a moot question as to whether this bill is going to pass—it is," said Rep. William H. Ayres, R-Ohio, ranking GOP member of the House Education and Labor Committee.

Interest centered on an expected salvo of amendments designed to cut down the effect of the bill. The main attack was expected against a provision that would put an estimated 485,000 employes of large farms and ranches and migrant workers under a $1 minimum that would grow by 1969 to $1.30 an hour. Farm workers never have been covered.

Martin's Question

"What's to prevent the next Congress from raising this to $1.75 or $2 an hour?" Martin asked. "That's the kind of thing we're faced with in the future if we allow coverage of agricultural workers."

Rep. Clair Callan, D-Neb., said he would oppose a Martin amendment to exclude farm workers from the bill's provisions. Callan said covering such workers would help family farms in his eastern Nebraska district. (Story on Page 10.)

Martin said the bill was "inequitable and unfair." The Kearney congressman said he would seek to change the increase to $1.35 the first year and $1.50 the second "to ease the burden on these small businessmen."

He said that if the bill passed, Negroes, Puerto Ricans and other minorities with few job skills would be the chief sufferers.

But two congressional veterans, Reps. Chet Holifield, D-Calif., and Ray Madden, D-Ind., ridiculed Martin's contention that economic distress would result from a higher minimum wage

Unfulfilled Prphecies

"I have heard the same arguments in the House since the minimum wage was 40 cents an hour—every time we attempt to give the American people purchasing power," Holifield said. "These prophecies of doom never have been borne out"

"For 21 years I've been hearing that places of business were going to close up on every street," Madden said. He said the gross national product had gone up $500 billion in 20 years and asked: "Are these poor folks we want to give a 15-cent raise to this year going to get some of that?"

Aside from the initial coverage of farm workers, the bill also would give first-time coverage to more than 6.5 million service and retail industry employes, who would start at the same $1 level as the farmhands, but continue rising in 15-cent yearly steps to the $1.60 level.

CPPD Won't Reactivate Hallam Reactor

. . . UNLESS FEDERAL AID BECOMES AVAILABLE

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Consumers Public Power District's board of directors decided Tuesday not to reactivate the dormant nuclear reactor at the Hallam power plant unless federal financial assistance becomes available.

Thus, CPPD officials announced, "the future responsibility for reactivating or decommissioning the reactor rests with the Atomic Energy Commission."

AEC thus far has indicated no intention to continue operation of the experimental sodium graphite reactor which was shut down in the fall of 1964 due to leakage problems within the core of the reactor.

Terminated Pact

AEC subsequently terminated its contract with Consumers in the summer of 1965 and has since reimbursed the district for $5.7 million in costs incurred by CPPD in construction of the facility.

Consumers will continue to operate its Sheldon Station at Hallam as a conventional generating facility with a capacity of 220,000 kilowatts in 1968. Generation capacity at Hallam this summer is rated at 115,000 kilowatts.

Meanwhile, Consumers board agreed to proceed with additional engineering studies for construction of a large new generation plant which will probably be nuclear and probably range in size between 400,000 and 500,000 kilowatts.

Site Studied

Site of the plant will be determined by its size as well as marketing and transmission information.

Consumers officials have previously indicated in appearances before the Nebraska Power Review Board that a site or sites on the Missouri River are being considered for the new plant. It presumably would not be located at Hallam.

Engineering studies conducted so far indicate that a plant of the size being contemplated would most likely be nuclear rather than conventional "because of the cost of fossil fuels in Nebraska," the board indicated in its Tuesday announcement.

Large Plant

"These same engineering considerations also showed that to be economically sound, a nuclear plant probably should be in the 400,000 kilowatt range, or larger, and that, in the absence of federal support, the nuclear portion of Sheldon Station at Hallam is not an economically feasible project for Consumers to continue," the board noted.

The nuclear reactor at Hallam produced 75,000 kilowatts.

From a technical standpoint, the reactor could be restarted and "a reasonably long life could be expected from it," the CPPD announcement stated.

Flexibility

Original planning for the Hallam plant gave Consumers the engineering flexibility to generate either by nuclear or conventional means.

". . . because of the smaller size of the nuclear portion of the plant and the economies involved, it is logical to continue operation of the Sheldon Station as a conventional facility," the board noted.

Construction is essentially complete on a 115,000-KW conventional unit and preliminary operation is progressing so that this generation will be available this summer.

A second conventional generating unit, rated at 105,000-KW, will be in operation by June 1968.

Accomplished

"Consumers' objective of becoming experienced in the operation of an atomic facility and of providing valuable technical information in the nuclear field has been accomplished," the CPPD announcement stated.

But, the value to Consumers of the basic nuclear information to be gained through continued operation of the reactor would not be commensurate with the costs which Consumers would incur without AEC support, it was noted.

"Consumers has been refunded its investment in the nuclear portion of the plant, and to assure a firm power supply, will invest this money in the conventional plant now under construction" at Hallam, the announcement said.

World's First

The experimental reactor at Hallam—the world's first full-scale sodium graphite reactor—was constructed by Atomics International in association with the AEC and Consumers.

Cost estimates for research, development and construction of the facility have been pegged at $54.7 million. Other associated expenses have ballooned the total cost into an estimated range of $70 million to $80 million.

AEC and Consumers signed their nuclear power contract in 1957; ground breaking at Hallam took place in 1958; first commercial production and transmission of nuclear power from the plant occured on May 29, 1963 and the reactor went to full power production that July.

Shutdown due to the leakage problems came in September 1964.

Line Studies

CPPD's directors said Tuesday that the continued engineering studies on a new large generation plant will also include surveys of "the necessary high-voltage lines to connect with other regions."

When Consumers General Manager Durwood Hill first revealed the district's plans to consider construction of a new plant last summer, he spoke in terms of placing the unit on the line by 1970 or 1971. About four years construction time would be needed.

Construction would require approval of the Power Review Board.

Rural Lincoln Youth Finds Mystery Shell On His Father's Pastureland

By JIM STEVENSON
Star Staff Writer

A 12-year-old rural Lincoln youth made an unusual discovery on his father's farm last week, the county sheriff's office revealed Tuesday.

Rodney Ray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ray of Rt. 5, Lincoln, was walking through a pasture on the farm last Saturday when he found a large shell.

He took it home where his father identified it as a World War II bazooka shell. The shell was placed in the Rays' yard, and the children were warned to stay away from it, because "it might have been dangerous," Mrs. Ray said.

"Donald and his smaller brother Lonnie were taken to Bryan Hospital Thursday," Mrs. Ray said. "We thought that it might have been the shell which caused their illness."

Hospital authorities discredit the idea that the sickness and the shell are connected, but Mr. Ray, acting on another hunch, reported the shell to the county sheriff's office Tuesday.

"From the weight of the nose, I thought that maybe it was still 'hot,' he said.

His hunch was right. Experts confirmed that the shell was indeed 'hot'. The shell had been fired but the detonating head had not exploded.

They verified the find as a World War I anti-tank bazooka shell, but offered no theories as to its location in a Lancaster county pasture.

The exterior of the shell had had been painted in gold paint," said Deputy Sheriff Norman Monroe. "But when the gold was scraped off, we found that one end had been marked with blue paint."

Blue paint was used to designate practice projectiles during the war. "But that doesn't make it any easier," he said. "We still don't have any idea how it got there."

Vote Echoes Viet Debate

. . . MIAMI MAYOR WINS

By The Associated Press

Rep. Robert B. Duncan, cast as the hawk in Oregon's echo of the American debate over Viet Nam, took an early lead Wednesday night in his race to become the Democratic nominee for the Senate.

In the feature race of a four-primary night, Duncan led former Democratic State Chairman Howard Morgan, a harsh critic of the American stand in Southeast Asia.

Duncan, twice elected to the House, supported President Johnson's Viet Nam policy in a campaign which centered on the Asian struggle.

To Face Hatfield

The winner will be matched against Republican Gov. Mark O. Hatfield, whose three challengers in the GOP Senate primary were only names on the ballot.

In the Democratic battle, this was the early picture from 508 of Oregon's 2,946 precincts: Duncan 15,944; Morgan 5,595; Gilbert Meyer 645.

Sen. Maurine Neuberger, a Democrat, set up the battle for the Senate seat when she decided not to run for re-election.

Robert King High, the red-haired mayor of Miami, trounced Gov. Haydon Burns in their battle for the Democratic nomination to become governor of Florida.

Burns, who beat High two years ago, conceded that he had lost the rematch — a bitter struggle marked by his charge that High was the candidate of a Negro bloc vote.

High, who campaigned with a promise of government integrity, apparently won lopsided backing in heavily Negro districts. A sampling showed high leads of up to 8-1 in those precincts.

Cooper Vs. Brown

In Kentucky, Republicans renominated Sen. John Sherman Cooper and Democrats chose John Young Brown, a former congressman, to run against him. Both choices were by overwhelming margins.

That set up a November rematch; Cooper and Young, once college classmates, were Senate opponents 20 years ago.

In Oklahoma's runoff primary, Preston Moore, former national commander of the American Legion, bested former Gov. Raymond Gary to win the Democratic nomination for governor. State Sen. Dewey Bartlett of Tulsa beat John N. Happy Camp for the Republican spot on the gubernatorial ballot.

Barry Backer Wins

And Kentucky conservative M. G. Snyder, making a congressional comeback bid, won the Republican House nomination from the newly designed, heavily populated 4th District.

Snyder, who championed Barry Goldwater's cause two years ago but lost his House seat in the Democratic landslide, topped GOP moderate James Thompson and George Ratterman, once a football star, later a sheriff.

In the campaign, liberal-minded Louisville Republicans called Snyder an extremist. Nevertheless, Snyder said his victory was not "for any kind of philosophy," but a win for the GOP organization. was nominated.

Morse Backed Morgan

Democratic Sen. Wayne Morse, the Senate's ranking critic of the war in Viet Nam, campaigned for Morgan and said he would vote for Hatfield in November if Duncan became the Democratic nominee.

Duncan, 45, is a crew-cut veteran of two House terms, and father of seven children.

Campaigning against Morgan, he said the war in Viet Nam is a logical extension of U.S. containment policies aimed at the communist world.

"I would prefer not to fight," he said, "but if I must, I will fight and fight to win our objectives and I would rather fight communism on the Mekong than on the Columbia."

Morgan—who served two years on the Federal Power Commission under the late President John F. Kennedy—called secretary of State Dean Rusk "Dean Risk," and described Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara as "a valiant cost accountant."

House Argues Wages

. . . MARTIN'S CONTENTION RIDICULED

Washington (UPI) — Opponents of legislation to increase the national minimum wage, including Rep. Dave Martin, R-Neb., charged that it would drive small businessmen to the wall and put unskilled workers in the street.

Supporters replied that they had been listening to the same predictions for 28 years and they never came true.

These arguments opened two days of House debate on a bill that would raise the present $1.25 hourly minimum wage to $1.60 by Feb. 1, 1968, for 29.6 million workers now under the wage-hour law and provide coverage for 7.2 million new workers.

Much GOP Support

The bill, which would provide the fourth round of wage floor increases since the fair labor standards act of 1938, had solid endorsement from President Johnson and more Republican backing than any such proposal in the past.

"It is a moot question as to whether this bill is going to pass—it is," said Rep. William H. Ayres, R-Ohio, ranking GOP member of the House Education and Labor Committee.

Interest centered on an expected salvo of amendments designed to cut down the effect of the bill. The main attack was expected against a provision that would put an estimated 485,000 employes of large farms and ranches and migrant workers under a $1 minimum that would grow by 1969 to $1.30 an hour. Farm workers never have been covered.

Martin's Question

"What's to prevent the next Congress from raising this to $1.75 or $2 an hour?" Martin asked. "That's the kind of thing we're faced with in the future if we allow coverage of agricultural workers."

Rep. Clair Callan, D-Neb., said he would oppose a Martin amendment to exclude farm workers from the bill's provisions. Callan said covering such workers would help family farms in his eastern Nebraska district. (Story on Page 10.)

Martin said the bill was "inequitable and unfair." The Kearney congressman said he would seek to change the increase to $1.35 the first year and $1.50 the second "to ease the burden on these small businessmen."

He said that if the bill passed, Negroes, Puerto Ricans and other minorities with few job skills would be the chief sufferers.

But two congressional veterans, Reps. Chet Holifield, D-Calif., and Ray Madden, D-Ind., ridiculed Martin's contention that economic distress would result from a higher minimum wage

Unfulfilled Prphecies

"I have heard the same arguments in the House since the minimum wage was 40 cents an hour—every time we attempt to give the American people purchasing power," Holifield said. "These prophecies of doom never have been borne out."

"For 24 years I've been hearing that places of business were going to close up on every street," Madden said. He said the gross national product had gone up $500 billion in 20 years and asked: "Are these poor folks we want to give a 15-cent raise to this year going to get some of that?"

Aside from the initial coverage of farm workers, the bill also would give first-time coverage to more than 6.5 million service and retail industry employes, who would start at the same $1 level as the farmhands, but continue rising in 15-cent yearly steps to the $1.60 level.

CPPD Won't Reactivate Hallam Reactor

. . . UNLESS FEDERAL AID BECOMES AVAILABLE

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Consumers Public Power District's board of directors decided Tuesday not to reactivate the dormant nuclear reactor at the Hallam power plant unless federal financial assistance becomes available.

Thus, CPPD officials announced, "the future responsibility for reactivating or decommissioning the reactor rests with the Atomic Energy Commission."

AEC thus far has indicated no intention to continue operation of the experimental sodium graphite reactor which was shut down in the fall of 1964 due to leakage problems within the core of the reactor.

Terminated Pact

AEC subsequently terminated its contract with Consumers in the summer of 1965 and has since reimbursed the district for $5.7 million in costs incurred by CPPD in construction of the facility.

Consumers will continue to operate its Sheldon Station at Hallam as a conventional generating facility with a capacity of 220,000 kilowatts in 1968. Generation capacity at Hallam this summer is rated at 115,000 kilowatts.

Meanwhile, Consumers board agreed to proceed with additional engineering studies for construction of a large new generation plant which will probably be nuclear and probably range in size between 400,000 and 500,000 kilowatts.

Site Studied

Site of the plant will be determined by its size as well as marketing and transmission information.

Consumers officials have previously indicated in appearances before the Nebraska Power Review Board that a site or sites on the Missouri River are being considered for the new plant. It presumably would not be located at Hallam.

Engineering studies conducted so far indicate that a plant of the size being contemplated would most likely be nuclear rather than conventional "because of the cost of fossil fuels in Nebraska," the board indicated in its Tuesday announcement.

Large Plant

"These same engineering considerations also showed that to be economically sound, a nuclear plant probably should be in the 400,000 kilowatt range, or larger, and that, in the absence of federal support, the nuclear portion of Sheldon Station at Hallam is not an economically feasible project for Consumers to continue," the board noted.

The nuclear reactor at Hallam produced 75,000 kilowatts.

From a technical standpoint, the reactor could be restarted and "a reasonably long life could be expected from it," the CPPD announcement stated.

Flexibility

Original planning for the Hallam plant gave Consumers the engineering flexibility to generate either by nuclear or conventional means.

". . . because of the smaller size of the nuclear portion of the plant and the economics involved, it is logical to continue operation of the Sheldon Station as a conventional facility," the board noted.

Construction is essentially complete on a 115,000-KW conventional unit and preliminary operation is progressing so that this generation will be available this summer.

A second conventional generating unit, rated at 105,000-KW, will be in operation by June 1968.

Accomplished

"Consumers' objective of becoming experienced in the operation of an atomic facility and of providing valuable technical information in the nuclear field has been accomplished," the CPPD announcement stated.

But, the value to Consumers of the basic nuclear information to be gained through continued operation of the reactor would not be commensurate with the costs which Consumers would incur without AEC support, it was noted.

"Consumers has been refunded its investment in the nuclear portion of the plant, and to assure a firm power supply, will invest this money in the conventional plant now under construction" at Hallam, the announcement said.

World's First

The experimental reactor at Hallam—the world's first full-scale sodium graphite reactor—was constructed by Atomics International in association with the AEC and Consumers.

Cost estimates for research, development and construction of the facility have been pegged at $54.7 million. Other associated expenses have ballooned the total cost into an estimated range of $70 million to $80 million.

AEC and Consumers signed their nuclear power contract in 1957; ground breaking at Hallam took place in 1958; first commercial production and transmission of nuclear power from the plant occured on May 29, 1963 and the reactor went to full power production that July.

Shutdown due to the leakage problems came in September 1964.

Line Studies

CPPD's directors said Tuesday that the continued engineering studies on a new large generation plant will also include surveys of "the necessary high-voltage lines to connect with other regions."

When Consumers General Manager Durwood Hill first revealed the district's plans to consider construction of a new plant last summer, he spoke in terms of placing the unit on the line by 1970 or 1971. About four years construction time would be needed.

Construction would require approval of the Power Review Board.

Rural Lincoln Youth Finds Mystery Shell On His Father's Pastureland

By JIM STEVENSON
Star Staff Writer

A 12-year-old rural Lincoln youth made an unusual discovery on his father's farm last week, the county sheriff's office revealed Tuesday.

Rodney Ray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ray of Rt. 5, Lincoln, was walking through a pasture on the farm last Saturday when he found a large shell.

He took it home where his father identified it as a World War II bazooka shell. The shell was placed in the Rays' yard, and the children were warned to stay away from it, because "it might have been dangerous," Mrs. Ray said.

"Ronald and his smaller brother Lonnie were taken to Bryan Hospital Thursday," Mrs. Ray said. "We thought that it might have been the shell which caused their illness."

Hospital authorities discredit the idea that the sickness and the shell are connected, but Mr. Ray, acting on another hunch, reported the shell to the county sheriff's office Tuesday.

"From the weight of the nose, I thought that maybe it was still 'hot,' he said.

His hunch was right. Experts confirmed that the shell was indeed 'hot'. The shell had been fired but the detonating head had not exploded.

They verified the find as a World War I anti-tank bazooka shell, but offered no theories as to its location in a Lancaster county pasture.

The exterior of the shell had had been painted in gold paint," said Deputy Sheriff Norman Monroe. "But when the gold was scraped off, we found that one end had been marked with blue paint."

Blue paint was used to designate practice projectiles during the war. "But that doesn't make it any easier,' he said "We still don't have any idea how it got there."

Uganda Troops Seize Palace Of King Freddie

Kampala, Uganda (AP) — Uganda government troops Tuesday seized the palace of the king of Buganda province after a day-long battle, the regime of President Milton Obote announced. The Cambridge - educated monarch, known as King Freddie, had threatened secession in the climax of a long-smoldering power struggle.

The government announced security troops attacked the brick-walled palace compound at Mengo, outside this East African capital, after it was learned mobs were receiving arms from there.

Press reports reaching London variously reported the 41-year-old king as missing, dead or arrested. One account said the Uganda army, supported by artillery, had set his palace on fire and killed 200 of his bodyguards.)

The latest trouble developed from the king's demand Monday that Obote's central government get out of Buganda province. This followed a decision in February by Obote to declare himself president of Uganda and abrogate the four-year-old constitution.

King Freddie, a popular ruler, was Uganda's first president after the former British colony became independent in 1962. He resigned after frequent clashes with Obote.

The government announcement on the fighting said eight policemen and 10 civilians were killed when mobs tried to take a rural police station. Two Britons working on a surveying project for the central government were killed by a mob 50 miles east of the capital.

The sound of automatic weapons fire could be heard all over Kampala, on the northwestern shore of Lake Victoria. Columns of smoke rose from burning buildings inside the palace compound.

(In Nairobi, Kenya, it was reported that five persons had been killed and several wounded Monday at Kampala when police and rioters clashed

Richest Province

King Freddie — officially Sir Edward Mutesa — has the title of kabaka of Buganda, the largest and richest of the four provinces of Uganda. Kampala is in Buganda.

King Freddie inherited his 500-year-old throne at age 18 and went off to school in England. He returned home in 1948 after taking third class honors at Cambridge and winning an honorary captainship in the Grenadier Guards.

Obote described Monday's demand that government troops leave as "an act of rebellion," and imposed at 7 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew on Kampala. He moved security troops into the region with powers to arrest without warrants.

The crisis began Friday, when the Bugandan parliament adopted a resolution demanding the central government's removal from Bugandan soil by May 30.

Under the 1962 constitutions Buganda held federal status.

Six Bugandan legislators, led by ex-Finance Minister Amos Sempa, were expelled from the national parliament when they refused to take the oath of allegiance under the new constitution introduced by Obote.

Sempa and three regional chiefs reportedly were arrested early Monday.

WIDOW . . . describes Deadwyler's death.

Mrs. Deadwyler Sobs Tale

Los Angeles (UPI) — A pregnant Negro mother of four sobbed Tuesday that her husband was fatally shot by a policeman whom they asked for an escort to a hospital. A family friend told the same story.

The tearful widow, Mrs. Barbara Deadwyler, wearing a bright candy-striped maternity dress, claimed the policeman returned the pistol to its holster after the shooting and turned away when she asked him, "Why did you shoot him?"

The friend, Gamalyle Ferguson, testified that the policeman pushed his revolver in through the window frame on the passenger's side of their car.

Ferguson said the victim asked the officer if he would assist them to the hospital. "The policeman didn't say anything. He pushed the revolver about five inches in and fired," Ferguson said.

Policewoman Barbara A. Johnson testified that Mrs. Deadwyler told her she had drunk some beer in the afternoon. She said the widow was calm except for occasional outbursts. But, the policewoman said, Mrs. Deadwyler had alcohol on her breath and "I believe she was under the influence of alcohol."

Ferguson, who testified that on the previous day he had bought the car in which he was riding with the Deadwylers, was the final witness of the day.

His testimony also included an assertion that he didn't see the widow and her husband drinking prior to the ride to the hospital or the shooting. He also denied police claims that the slain motorist had swerved the car toward pursuing police units.

Yanks Claim 79 More Reds

Saigon (AP) — U.S. troops counted 79 Viet Cong dead Tuesday from scattered skirmishes and B52 bombers lashed at a major communist concentration, believed to total about 350 men, in the highlands 35 miles west of Quang Ngai.

Monsoon storms held down American air attacks on North Viet Nam to 33 missions in the 24-hour period up to dawn, but U.S. and South Vietnamese pilots flew 489 sorties over South Viet Nam in support of allied ground forces. Two planes and one pilot were lost.

The operations carried on a campaign that led Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, a visitor to Viet Nam, to say there clearly has been an improvement — "a quite dramatic improvement" — in the military situation.

"If we could get the political and diplomatic situation going in the same way, I think we would be on a better road," Scranton said, adding that it was a big "if."

Part of the ground action was in the 1st Corps area, the northern provinces in which Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's forces lately have been engaged primarily in coping with a Buddhist-led rebellion.

A spokesman told of the highlights:

U.S. Marines killed 28 Viet Cong in firefights around Da Nang, the corps area headquarters, and Phu Bai, the airport of Hue, another center of dissidence. The Marines blew up an enemy tunnel with grenades.

Troopers in Operation Crazy Horse, a nine-day-old U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division drive in the central highlands 260 miles northeast of Saigon, killed 17 more communists.

Ambush patrols of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division accounted for nine Viet Cong in the jungle and rubber plantation country 35 miles northwest of Saigon.

American losses in each case were described as light.

B52 Stratofortresses from Guam dumped tons of 750-pound bombs in the attack on the reported enemy troop concentration west of Quang Ngai, 340 miles northeast of Saigon. There was no immediate assessment of the results.

About 100 miles away to the southwest, a light spotter plane fell in the central highlands, possibly a victim of ground fire. Other U.S. fliers had radio contact with the pilot on the ground, but he was dead when rescuers arrived. The spokesmas said it was possible the Viet Cong "got to him."

U.N. Chief Says De-Escalation Is Peace Pivot Point

Atlantic City, N.J. (AP) — United Nations Secretary-General U Thant said Tuesday the starting point for peace in Viet Nam is a scaling down of military operations to initiate discussions among the major powers including Communist China.

"The solution lies in the hands of those who have the power and responsibility to decide," he declared.

Thant said it is an illusion to think of the war as a conflict between communism and liberal democracy. He said:

"What is really at stake, unless an early end to the hostilities is brought about, is the independence, the identity and the survival of the country itself."

He spoke to the 25th biennial convention of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America. The 1,500 union delegates repeatedly applauded Thant's discussion of Viet Nam.

Debt Request Halved

Washington (AP) — President Johnson's request for a $4-billion boost in the national debt ceiling was chopped in half Tuesday by the House Ways and Means Committee, which voted a $330-billion limit.

Apparently, the committee chose the lower figure in light of an optimistic report by the staff of the Senate-House Internal Revenue Committee that the administration is anticipating too big a deficit.

The treasury, in asking for the $4-billion increase in the debt limit, predicted a deficit of $3.9 billion in this fiscal year which ends June 30. The joint committee staff, saying indications are that revenues will be higher than the treasury foresees, put the deficit at only $2.5 billion.

For the next fiscal year, starting July 1, the treasury says the deficit will be $1.8 billion, but the joint committee staff says there might be a surplus.

'Historic' Creed Reform OKd By Presbyterians

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

Boston (AP)—The United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. Tuesday staked out a new platform of convictions, its first creedal reform in over 300 years.

After drawn-out preliminaries and debate, the governing general assembly of the 3.3-million-member denomination overwhelmingly approved the document.

"A historic moment," said the Rev Dr. Ganse Little of Pasadena, Calif., the new moderator.

Not since the Westminster Confession of 1649 had Presbyterians acted to declare their faith in a more vivid, up-to-date way.

'Praise God . . .'

The 1,500 delegates broke into loud, long applause, dissolving into singing of "Praise God from whom all blessings flow."

The decision climaxed eight years of work, including a year of membership-wide discussion and review. It now is subject to ratification by at least two thirds of the denomination's 188 area presbyteries.

"The church now is united on its new confession," commented the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, the denomination's long-time chief executive.

In past months, keen controversy swirled about the new confession, but this largely faded away.

The new confession offers a fresh, contemporary interpretation of basic Christian concepts, and points up their relevance to current issues of international peace, racial justice and sexual morality.

Late Tuesday, the assembly also worked to hammer out proposals on a wide range of public issues, including:

—A recommendation that the United States support the seating of Communist China in the United Nations, and seek to open free travel and non-strategic trade between this country and China.

—A plea that the United States continue pressing for "international means of settlement" of the Viet Nam war, recognizing that "neither abandonment of the struggle . . . nor escalation of military action will end the suffering and terror there."

—A defense of "the right of dissent" against governmental policies, such as the Viet Nam war, declaring: "Suppression of dissent destroys both the basis and the goal of our democratic system."

Crisply Worded

As an example of how the new confession differs from the old one, the bulky, archaically phrased Westminster statement takes 89 words to say what the new one puts in these short, crisp terms:

"All who put their trust in Christ face divine judgment without fear, for the Judge is their Redeemer."

While the confession covers the classic Christian doctrines, it does so in a new idiom, avoiding words such as "damnation," "hell" and "heaven," but expressing the concepts in terms considered more meaningful.

It also removes a former approach to the Bible as verbally infallible, saying it was written by men, and reflects cultural outlooks of their period, even though "given under guidance of the Holy Spirit."

Christ himself is described as "the Word of God Incarnate, to whom the Holy Spirit bears unique and authoritative witness through the holy scriptures."

Earlier the United Presbyterians authorized a complete overhaul in their methods of teaching Christianity to harness the latest techniques, such as those used in "conceptual thinking," the "new math" and "programmed education."

Anticipating expanded weekday schedules, the Rev. Dr. William A. Morrison said that by the time a child reaches school age, it is vitally important that he worship with his parents.

Asked if the youngsters might not disturb the decorum of church services, he said that this would "help end the antiseptic impeccability of worship."

The undertaking also envisages joint weekday classes with parishes of other denominations, when possible, and a nationwide program for upgrading the qualifications of church teachers.

Dr. Morrison said the plan will involve a "whole new educational system" to meet the "inescapable urgencies" facing the church today.

For many young people, in this new ferment of intellectual questioning, he said, "the church is the last place they would go for guidance."

"The church must be deadly serious about teaching the Gospel because the competition is intense and far more serious than we have seen yet."

Resurgent Is Car Sale Word

Detroit (AP)—Mid-May new car sales bounced back from an early May slump, although they still ran behind comparable 1965 totals.

Preliminary sales reports Tuesday showed 242,407 new cars were sold in the May 11-20 period, an increase of nearly 50,000 over the opening 10 days of the month.

Industry joy over that figure was tempered, however, by the additional note that sales for the period just ended ran about 33,000 behind the corresponding 10 days last year.

The sales pattern was the same all through the industry. General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors sold more cars than they did in the opening 10 days of May but they fell short of the sales totals they chalked up a year ago.

The undertaking also envisages joint weekday classes with parishes of other denominations, when possible, and a nationwide program for upgrading the qualifications of church teachers.

Dr. Morrison said the plan will involve a "whole new educational system" to meet the "inescapable urgencies" facing the church today.

For many young people, in this new ferment of intellectual questioning, he said, "the church is the last place they would go for guidance."

"The church must be deadly serious about teaching the Gospel because the competition is intense and far more serious than we have seen yet."

Resurgent Is Car Sale Word

Detroit (AP)—Mid-May new car sales bounced back from an early May slump, although they still ran behind comparable 1965 totals.

Preliminary sales reports Tuesday showed 242,407 new cars were sold in the May 11-20 period, an increase of nearly 50,000 over the opening 10 days of the month.

Industry joy over that figure was tempered, however, by the additional note that sales for the period just ended ran about 33,000 behind the corresponding 10 days last year.

The sales pattern was the same all through the industry. General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors sold more cars than they did in the opening 10 days of May but they fell short of the sales totals they chalked up a year ago.

Order Restored In Time For Herman Graduation

. . . VANDALISM DAMAGE PLACED NEAR $2,000

Lincoln Star Special

Herman — Commencement exercises for the 17 Herman High School seniors were held as scheduled Tuesday night—but there was a time when cancellation was under consideration.

Vandalism at the school buildings last weekend was so severe, Supt. Marcus Kroger said, officials thought it might be impossible to hold services there. Damage has been estimated at near $2,000.

Although no arrests have been made or charges filed, the Washington County attorney said his office is continuing an investigation into the vandalism. Lie detector tests were given to two youths suspected of participation in the damage, the county attorney stated.

Entrance to the school was apparently via breaking a window to the auditorium-shop building, Supt. Kroger said. In the school shop the intruders obtained hammers and bars for use in prying open cupboards, etc., he added.

Gym Floor Damaged

Cartons of chocolate milk, cups, straws and pop bottles were scattered about the auditorium, it was reported.

Supt. Kroger revealed that toilet bowl cleaner was poured on the gym floor, causing extensive damage. In the athletic equipment room, basketball suits were piled on the floor, covered by a ball-cleaner fluid, he said.

Nine of 10 fire extinguishers were ripped from the walls with the contents sprayed over dumped and torn library books, school records, office equipment, typewriters and trophies, the superintendent related. The whole building was sprayed with chemicals from the extinguishers.

In the hallways a drinking fountain was ripped off the wall.

The school's film library was ransacked with films pulled from their containers and dumped on the floor. Maps were torn from the wall and desks overturned.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford West, building custodians, were almost in tears at the sight of the vandalism as they had been endeavoring to get the auditorium in top shape for Tuesday's commencement.

State School Boards Association Leaning Toward Combination Tax

The Nebraska State School Boards Association is "leaning" toward support of a combination sales-income tax to provide revenue for a state-aid-to-education program, Executive Secretary Richard C. Brown of Holdrege said Tuesday.

The association already is on record as favoring a broadening of the tax base to finance a system of state aid to schools.

Brown said a poll now under way has uncovered a feeling among the membership of the association, which claims 275 member boards, that a combination tax would be the best method of raising the needed revenue.

He said the poll also shows that the association favors a stronger school district reorganization law.

"From a preliminary examination, it appears the membership generally favors the setting of minimum school standards which would force poor districts to dissolve," Brown said. "The association feels the entire state should be covered by districts providing classes from kindergarten through high school."

Brown said he has received about 450 responses to the poll through the mail and in talks with association members at 15 recent district meetings.

He said the results of the poll will form the basis for "fairly specific legislative proposals" following conferences with consultants and interested state senators.

"I think we might as well get a state-aid bill through the next session, but the issue will be caught up in the general tax fight," Brown said.

He said significant changes in the state's school district reorganization statutes, which he termed "too permissive," are not expected during the 1967 session.

York (AP) — Sheriff Lewis Ekart says he plans to call a meeting of local health officials to study findings which indicate pollution of Beaver Creek which passes through the York Country Club and Harrison Park.

Conservation Officer Gail Woodside of York said he asked that all fishing on the stream be halted after reports on carp and bullheads dying in the stream Saturday.

A test, he said, showed there was no dissolved oxygen in the water.

Suspect Held In Murder Of Ex-Nebraskan

Long Beach, Calif. (AP)—Police Tuesday were holding Carrol Lawrence Lindgren, 48, booked on suspicion of murder, in the fatal shooting Saturday of Robert R. Hansen, 39, a hotel handyman.

Officers gave this account:

Lindgren, part owner of a Long Beach bar, kicked down the door of an apartment where he found his estranged wife, Ann Lindgren, 50, and Hansen. Three shots were fired from a .32 caliber revolver, two of which struck Hansen.

Lindgren was arrested later in a phone booth elsewhere in the city, after Mrs. Lindgren had provided a description of his auto.

Hansen was formerly of Norfolk, Neb.

Hansen was a native of Winside and a graduate of Norfolk High School and Junior College. He also was a World War II veteran.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Lyle Hunt of Winner, S.D., and two sisters, Mrs. Fred Letheby and Mrs. Dan Hoien both of Norfolk.

Family Dog Gets Help For Wilcox, Hurt In Mishap

Clearwater (AP) — A family dog again proved to be "man's best friend."

Benny Wilcox, young farmer south of town, is now getting about with the use of crutches after suffering a broken big toe in his left foot while working at the home of his mother, Mrs. Gail Wilcox.

Wilcox had jacked up the tongue of a manure spreader, when the tongue fell on his foot, pinning him for about an hour. Efforts to free himself were in vain as he called for help.

Only the family dog heard him. Mrs. Wilcox noticed the dog acting in an unusual manner. It would run toward the rear of the barn, then back to the house. Investigating, she found her son. Using another jack, she raised the tongue off the injured foot. He was treated by a Neligh doctor.

'Insufficient Assets' In Douglas Clerk's Office

. . . State Auditor Report Says

Omaha (AP)—The state auditor's office reported Tuesday an audit of 1965 transactions indicated "insufficient assets of $7,489.03" in the office of District Court Clerk Sidney J. Gottneid.

Gottneid said the report "completely vindicates myself and my office."

Gottneid, 77, will retire at the end of the year. He said "I will be able to turn over every penny to my successor."

The report said the "variation represents the net difference between office account receivable (from attorneys) as presented to our examiners under the date of Dec. 31, 1965, as compared to our examiners' adjusted listing . . ."

State Auditor Ray C. Johnson said, "Three weeks ago this Friday, we were handed $6,531.91 in cash . . . I don't know where it came from."

Gottneid said his cashier, Violet Fields, had found it in a cash box in the office vault. He said it was money from "an over account" and could not be traced to an account. He said the amount "offsets" the insufficient assets, which would leave $957.12 unaccounted for.

"The rest is coming in from the attorneys we have been mailing statements to," Gottneid said. "We're not short a thing."

The report said the "variation represents the net difference between office account receivable (from attorneys) as presented to our examiners under the date of Dec. 31, 1965, as compared to our examiners' adjusted listing . . ."

State Auditor Ray C. Johnson said, "Three weeks ago this Friday, we were handed $6,531.91 in cash . . . I don't know where it came from."

Gottneid said his cashier, Violet Fields, had found it in a cash box in the office vault. He said it was money from "an over account" and could not be traced to an account. He said the amount "offsets" the insufficient assets, which would leave $957.12 unaccounted for.

"The rest is coming in from the attorneys we have been mailing statements to," Gottneid said. "We're not short a thing."

Neighborhood Youth Plan For Winnebago OKd

Washington — The Department of Labor has approved a Neighborhood Youth Corps project to be sponsored by the Winnebago Indian Tribal Council in Winnebago, Neb.

According to Rep. Clair Callan, D-Neb., the project will provide work experience opportunities for 65 in-school enrollees at a cost of $30,590. The federal share is $28,910 with the remainder contributed by the tribal council.

The purpose of the Neighborhood Youth Council program, which was established by the Economic Opportunity Act, is to enable school age young people to have jobs on projects sponsored by public or private non-profit organizations.

Organizing Resources

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Nothing but agreement can be found with a study to be undertaken of the possibilities of separate status for the Division of Nebraska Resources. Looking into this will be a committee of the Nebraska Resources Committee and Foundation, an appointive organization serving the division in an advisory capacity and seeking to give the division financial assistance.

High On The List

The division now is under the State Department of Agriculture. The point here is not one of disenchantment with the department but rather, hope in the path of separation. It has long been felt in many quarters that the industrial development of Nebraska deserves more status and attention than it receives as an arm of another state agency. The fact is that industrial development of the state, for which the resources division is responsible, is probably Number One on the priority list. Some might place it behind taxation but it would be a matter of semantics. If taxation is Number One, it can be solved only through economic progress.

Nebraska not only has a poor tax base in its heavy reliance upon the property tax but it lacks a large economic foundation on which to build a good and productive tax system. Taxes require two things — a good system and something to tax. The best tax system in the world would be to no avail if there is nothing to tax, no wealth from which the needed public funds can be extracted.

Thus, a change in Nebraska's tax system and an improved industrial situation go hand in hand and which one comes first isn't of too great importance. It is important that Nebraska in taxation do the right thing when it does move. In Omaha, for instance, a city councilman has suggested that the city seek legislative authority to enact a sales or income tax.

Omaha, of course, faces the bind in taxation that is faced at all levels of government in the state but the city has traditionally been a stronghold of a conservative approach to taxation on the state level. From Omaha has come the major opposition to any broadening of the tax base at the state level. Would it now be wise to give Omaha, Lincoln and perhaps other cities the kind of tax freedom that many have sought for the state? It would probably be a sad mistake. Such action would leave the state in even a worse situation than it now finds itself. With cities using the sales and income tax, opposition to state use of those forms of taxation would be intensified. And city use of sales and income taxes on a selective basis would give the state no latitude on the property tax.

The state under such circumstances would still have to contend with the pressure of areas where the property tax was the sole form or public income at all levels of government. By far the wisest course of action to follow is to broaden the tax base at the state level. If this is not sufficient relief from the property tax, then the state can enter into programs of assistance to the cities and school districts for relief at the local level of the property tax. Omaha interests who propose improved and higher forms of income for their city but continue to fight any expansion at the state level are not being honest. We cannot sacrifice our status as a state and expect to find a future of any promise. The state cannot be made a subsidiary to the cities and towns of its jurisdiction.

Separation of the resources division would not alone provide the economic or industrial climate in which an improved tax situation would be found. The hope is that separation might lead to those actions that would eventually produce a change in the division that would bear the kind of fruit we all want.

Separation of the division would immediately be a recognition of the importance of industrial development. It would then become a matter of putting our money where our convictions are. If we would demonstrate our belief in the importance of industrial development, we ought to be willing to do something about it.

Necessity Of Funds

Toward this end, the committee is expected to look into budget matters in connection with a separation of the division. This is the key to the future. The resources division will never be the effective tool it could be without the kind of financial support that permits it to do a job. It needs a highly trained technical staff, it needs funds for the development of plans, for promotion and for other purposes. It is a division of state government that has remained fairly static over the years while its field of competition has grown in quality and quantity. Industrial growth is an end pursued with diligence by every state in the Union.

It is hoped that the committee and foundation come up with recommendations for the Legislature that could put this state's approach to industrial development on a more advanced and meaningful basis. Every index you care to look at shows the vital need that exists in Nebraska for an expanded private economy.

Hike In Bus Fares

An increase in fares has been proposed by Lincoln City Lines and the best guess would be that the hike will ultimately be approved. Proposed is a jump of five cents for both children's fare of 10 cents and adult's fare of 15 cents. The increase, of course, will be received with little enthusiasm but with some sense of inevitability.

While the economy of the country has been constantly going up, the public transportation business has been shrinking in many areas. The development of air and automobile transportation has been like a death sentence to some other forms of mass transit.

The federal government is deeply involved in efforts to save the staggering public transportation systems in the larger metropolitan areas. Lincoln has experienced the same thing on a smaller scale for years now.

At one time, Lincoln City Lines even proposed that the city take over its system and possibly feels that way yet today. The system has faced the impossibility of declining revenues and increasing costs. It has had to pay more for its drivers, mechanics, office assistants and equipment while more and more people have turned to the private car as their mode of transportation.

Lincoln City Lines for years has been in a vicious circle of decline for which no answer has ever been found. All the equipment and service techniques there are have been tried in one place or another but to no avail. The industry is one that has been and continues to be sick from a variety of sources. While the details of the current rate increase are unknown, the situation in general tends to confirm the validity of the proposal. Also, proposed fares still do not seem excessive in view of current cost of living figures.

Almost A State Problem Now

Figures published this week by the U.S. Department of Agriculture relate that as of May 1 the U.S. wheat supplies available for carryover or for export are 704 million bushels.

A year ago May 1 the available supply was 968 million bushels. In 1964 it was 1.05 billion bushels.

Obviously the activity of the federal farm program and of the farmer-producers are winning the battle against oppressive surpluses. Unfortunately they are not winning the battle proportionately for improved prices.

Long ago, when our population was less, the ever normal granary was said to be adequate with 600 million bushels in the bin. The ever normal granary was a fictional term for the amount of wheat that would preserve the nation against a crop failure — a reserve against a speculative future.

Now with a population of 200 million it would seem that the normal increase in size of the reserve would be greater than our present 704 million bushels.

It appears now that our production is in near balance with needed supplies we should get down to the bed rock problem of getting an adequate price for the grain.

We are getting rid of farmers at such a rate that they are no longer an effective political group nationally and we are thus depopulating the agrarian states and this is bringing on problems of taxation and weakening political fabric to a serious point. We grant that gigantic machinery in control of a great landowner can supply the national demand and even make the owner reasonably wealthy. But a state lives by people. If the trend continues it will one day cease to be a farm problem. It will be a problem of survival to more than one state, Nebraska included.

Editor Is Sustained

In 1962, on election day, James E. Mills, editor of the Birmingham, Alabama, Post-Herald, published an editorial calling for the abolition of the city's commission form of government—a question the voters that day were deciding.

Suit was brought against him for violating Alabama's electioneering law. The case has not yet been brought to trial but this week the U.S. Supreme Court in a 9-0 decision said the anti-electioneering statute could not be applied to the editor. Justice John M. Harlan, though agreeing with the decision, observed that it was untimely. The court should have waited until after Mills had been prosecuted.

Justice Hugo Black said for the high court, "Suppression of the right of the press to praise or criticize governmental agents and to clamor for or against change, muzzles one of the agencies the framers of our Constitution thoughtfully and deliberately selected to improve our society and keep it free."

The only good thing about this action is that it provided cause for a re-statement of the old principle of a free society. One even must differ with Justice Harlan that the court should have stayed its hand until after the editor had gone through the pain of prosecution.

It is surprising that a little rancor, or even disagreement could cause his critics to forget the basics of free speech. The full ventilation of any public question is more than a right. It is an essential to a balanced judgment.

The great weakness of a totalitarian government lies in its prohibition of all expressions except one. If the one view is wrong there is no way to prevent the dissolution of that society. And no human mind has yet been able inevitably to make the correct decision.

Green One Of Great Senators

WASHINGTON — A great man died in Rhode Island last week at the age of 98. Theodore Francis Green achieved many landmarks in his long life and, as an old friend, I cannot let him leave without noting some of them.

I remember him at the age of 86 or so still as active as a jumping bean, playing badminton at our farm. And I especially remember him as the last senator who really investigated campaign contributions with penetrating, old-fashioned vigor. If there were more of this today there wouldn't be any Doddism.

And I remember his remarkable memory, and his graphic description of the 16 presidents of the United States he had met as nearly a century of American history rolled by.

☆ ☆ ☆

But what I remember vividly about the late Senator from Rhode Island was that he knew when to quit. Lyndon Johnson, then a senator, told me the story.

Lyndon was presiding over the Senate Preparedness Committee on the morning of Jan. 29, 1958, when he received a note from Green asking that LBJ see him. Lyndon turned the gavel over to another senator and went to Green's office where the 91-year-old senator showed him an editorial from the Providence Journal urging that he resign as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee because of age.

"It's true that I can't hear the way I used to and I'm embarrassed by it," said the oldest senator ever to serve in the Senate. "I want your advice. Should I resign?"

Sen. Johnson advised in the negative. There was a little more discussion, and Lyndon went back to his preparedness committee.

☆ ☆ ☆

At 4:45 p.m., Johnson got another note that Senator Green wanted to see him in his office. When he entered, the old man had his head down on his chest, his eyes closed as if asleep. But as the younger man entered, the elder looked up and chuckled.

"I've got a lot of service out of the majority leader today," he said.

"I've decided not to take your advice," he continued. "I'm going to resign—though not because of these slanted newspaper editorials.

"There are three things I love in life. One is the United States of America. One is the Senate. One is the Foreign Relations Committee. In fairness to them I'm going to resign as chairman. I'm going to remain a member of the committee and participate in its work, but I'm going to give up the chairmanship. I think it's better that way.

"I can't always hear the witnesses, and I can't always read the statements they turn in. I come up here every Saturday and Sunday and spend all day reading in order to keep up, but I have to confess I fall behind. So it's only fair that I resign."

"You're my majority leader," he said, "so I've written you my letter of resignation. I'm sorry to ignore your advice."

Viet Nam Looks Like Big Issue

WASHINGTON — President Johnson privately justifies his recent sneers at Viet Nam dissenters on the ground that Democratic candidates this fall have more to fear from Republican hard-liners than from rivals who want a negotiated peace.

This is a matter of political judgment. The President supported his own judgment in two fiery speeches when he sought to bulldoze himself and his policy into the midterm elections. He wrote the second of these scorchers on the plane to Chicago, where he delivered it with relish.

Some Democrats who would have agreed with him early this spring are now not so sure. They find deep discontent just below the surface when Viet Nam is mentioned, and it is mentioned more and more. The strongest Johnson supporters agree it is the compelling issue of a very difficult campaign.

Democratic defeats will not help the President, and there is no reason to believe he is not giving his supporters the benefit of his best judgment. Yet it is a fact that his judgment in this matter also justifies his plans, now openly talked of by one advisor, Gen. Maxwell Taylor, to increase the number of American ground forces in Viet Nam to 400,000.

☆ ☆ ☆

This was apparently in the works before the South Vietnamese began fighting each other with American materiel. This spectacle has damaged the American voter attitude, as members of Congress are discovering with every day's mail.

Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky and his military government are winning their civil war at the moment, but casualty figures show that Americans recently have been doing most of the fighting against the Viet Cong. This is hardly a palatable dish to set before the country.

Ky's chances to achieve political stability at home are unproved, even if he does present the United States with a triumph against his rivals. Questions of this kind are evaded here, and the general mood is defensive.

☆ ☆ ☆

As Democrats contemplate the days ahead, they uncover surprising contradictions. A senator as belligerent as the President finds himself challenged by a so-called dove and mourns that he would prefer to run against a hard-liner. He explains that he could then draw back somewhat and "comfort the afflicted."

Another who prefers a peace-with-honor stance finds himself up against a rival who asks audiences: are you satisfied? Few seem to be.

This discontent verging upon apprehension is beginning to remind the beleaguered campaigners of 1966 of the 1946 Republican congressional triumph won on meat shortages and other postwar discontent. Republicans had only that issue, but it was enough. The voters got it out of their systems and in 1948 re-elected President Truman.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Diplomacy Like A TV Rerun

WASHINGTON — With the summer reruns beginning on television, the news on the diplomatic side also has that tired, rerun quality. It is the familiar formula of the good guys versus the bad guys, with the good guys winning in a final burst of rifle fire just before the last commercial.

President Charles De Gaulle of France is cast as the heavy villain in the episodes just ahead. In the fastness of the Elysee Palace in Paris, he has been plotting to pull down the pillars of a United Europe. So Destry, in the person of Secretary of State Dean Rusk, rides again, this time to the NATO meetings in Brussels.

At Brussels the NATO ministers will begin studying where to locate NATO's new headquarters, now that the deadline for De Gaulle's eviction notice is near. Whether it is London or Bonn or somewhere in Belgium or Holland, the uprooting process will be painful and costly. The United States will pay most of the bill of not less than a half billion dollars for relocating the transportation communications complex embedded in the heart of France.

☆ ☆ ☆

Physically this can be accomplished. A show of hands will put the NATO partners, excluding France, on the side of Washington. But if Rusk presents the old formula of NATO as a military alliance with the goal of standing off the threat of the Soviet Union, it will be a triumph with little real meaning.

For the signs are multiplying that discontent with NATO is not confined to De Gaulle. After a survey of principal NATO capitals, Arnaud De Borchgrave, Newsweek senior editor in Europe, reported recently that the unrest with the old military concept—the standfast line—as widespread. European diplomats have long been saying this in private.

In the cold calculation of unity versus nationalistic rivalry, the odds for peace or war, De Gaulle can be scored against on one point after another by the Washington scorekeepers. It is too early, however, to say where the blame will ultimately rest. In 1958, De Gaulle proposed a tripartite arrangement, with France, Britain, and the United States to cover all foreign policy determinations everywhere.

The French logic was that if the United States with its vast nuclear superiority was to get into a war in whatever part of the globe, the principal NATO allies would be involved; and, therefore, they should be in on the takeoff as well as the crash landing. The Eisenhower administration, after backing and filling about "consultations," let the matter drop. The French argument today is that the truly crucial decisions are the nuclear decisions and, if the allies are excluded from this area, then the NATO alliance has little meaning.

But it was in the following year that De Gaulle's obstructionism was so costly. Secretary of State Christian Herter, who has never had his just due, initiated a break-through with the Soviet Union. President Eisenhower received Khrushchev in September and he was to have returned that visit in November. There was every indication that his appeal for peaceful co-existence and a pause in the arms race would have had wide popular response. But De Gaulle insisted that he have his own session with Khrushchev before this encounter. The Eisenower visit was delayed, the 1960 summit meeting collapsed over the shooting down of a U-2 plane over Soviet territory, and Ike never went to Moscow. In retrospect, this may have been a last chance for an East-West understanding.

Now De Gaulle is off to Moscow. He arrives on June 20 and he speaks on June 21, which will be the 25th anniversary of the German invasion of Russia. No one doubts that he will discuss the postwar German boundaries and perhaps even about the neutralization of Germany.

The talk here about De Gaulle's mission to Moscow sounds like whistling past the graveyard. It will be show, flattery, nothing substantive. Yet, at the very least, he seems likely to come away with an agreement for cooperation in space, nuclear energy and perhaps other fields as well. This is the kind of opening for which Europe has been groping. The NATO powers in Europe are rapidly increasing their trade with the communist bloc, and this will lead to other forms of cooperation.

This suggests — above all in the timing — that Rusk at Brussels has an unparalleled opportunity for an act of creative statesmanship. The Vietnamese war, it may be argued, makes it impossible. But if he were to propose a new approach to solving East-West differences, he would find a response in NATO that would alter the present outlook and might even contribute to an eventual solution of the Viet Nam conflict.

BOB CONSIDINE

One Young American Says It All

NEW YORK — A Providence (R.I.) college senior eager to go on into post graduate work but acutely aware of the hot breath of Uncle Sam on his neck, writes to a young girl friend:

"One thing you've got to understand about me. When I was born they stamped 'Made in the U.S.A.' across my derriere and the tears of a million peace marchers has failed to wash away that mark.

"If they say 'go!' I'll go, for there are men no better and no worse than myself who have gone and some who've stayed—and all this for the American Citizen Soldier's Dream: do it and do it well and get the hell home.

"But it's more than this. Men fight, American men, thousands of miles from those they love just for the reason that those they love might never know the bitter gall of war firsthand . . . that our 'kids's' only knowledge of war and all it entails will be learned strictly from history books and Hollywood re-runs.

"If we were not at war, it would be this particular kid for the Peace Corps. It's a lot better and easier to talk to people without having to shout over the din of gunfire."

☆ ☆ ☆

Ran across an alarming prognostication. DMS Inc., the aerospace market research firm in the United States, predicts that 10 years from now there will be 200,000 private planes in our sky.

That is, of course, if Ralph Nader doesn't have a book on the stands at the time entitled, "Unsafe—At Any Altitude."

The sheer horror of having our supersonic transports trying to land in New York or L.A., or San Francisco through a blizzard of small planes filled with Joe Bananas, the wife and the kids, out for a sightseeing flight, will not be pursued here and now.

Alarms about the proliferation of methods of conveyance have been sounded before. When the first pedestrian was killed by an automobile, here in New York City in 1889, there were indignant editorials to the effect that the horseless carriage was a much too lethal form of locomotion — and they decried the fact that nearly 3,000 of these diabolical machines had been turned loose in the United States. Today Detroit makes 3,000 cars after turning off the power at the plant at the end of a day's work. They pop off the production lines from sheer momentum, as the machines grind to a stop.

So maybe my children and grandchildren will laugh in the 1970s when, for kicks, they re-read this yellowed clipping that deplores the coming of a day when there will be two private planes in every garage.

The hassle over whether the Air Force shot down a Chinese plane 20 miles south of the Chinese border or 20 miles in over Yunnan Province doesn't seem likely to plunge the U.S. and Red China into war. Invasion of "air space" is becoming much less of an issue than it was, let's say, on May 1, 1960 when U-2 Pilot Francis Gary Powers was shot down over Sverdlovsk and the State Department at first said, lamely that he was a weather-sampling pilot whose plane must have been blown off course. Now the U.S., Soviet Union and Red China are criss-crossed daily, and many times, by Soviet-American spying satellites, and nobody gets around to beefing —and won't until one of the sides comes up with a method of shooting the other side's out of space.

Our New York World's Fair is still being carted away, leaving gaping wounds that one day will grow green where red (ink) once predominated. To the north, on two islands in the St. Lawrence River, another fair begins to rise: Expo 67. It has the blessing of the little old couple in Switzerland who have the power to declare whether a fair is a "world's fair" or beyond the pale—as ours was. Expo 67 will run six months and probably make money, as did the Seattle fair.

Russia, which ignored our fine show, is spending $15 million on its pavilion at Expo 67, which will be spread on land only minutes from downtown Montreal. The investment is second only to the host country's $21 million exhibit. The U.S. Congress has cut our participation from a $12 million budget to $9.3 million. A bridge, already nicknamed The Bridge of Sighs, will connect the exhibits of the U.S. and USSR.

The Soviet Union plans to send the Bolshoi Ballet, the Red Army Chorus and some of the priceless art of Leningrad's Hermitage to balance its standard display of heavy tractors, Sputniks, voskhods and weighty propaganda. We're answering with a pavilion 20 stories high, sparingly furnished with goodies ranging from offbeat art works to automated lunanauts exploring the moon.

American Express, handling advance ticket sales in the U.S., expects more than 5,000,000 Americans to make the trip to Montreal. The Canadians are selling advance tickets at cut rates, and assure Americans that the Canadian equivalent of Sally Rand, and all that involves, will be prominently bared on Expo 67's Midway.

Apparently the GOP cannot escape the temptation to be a "me, too" party. Hardly had the nation (and the Baptist Church) recovered from that picture of Rev. Jack D. Moyers doing a wicked frug at a White House party when Dick Nixon was escorted to the platform at a fund-raising dinner in Pittsburgh by a covey of frisky "go-go girls," throwing bumps.

"I never saw anything like that in my life, but I like it," a Republican matron squealed.

The system has faced the impossibility of declining revenues and increasing costs. It has had to pay more for its drivers, mechanics, office assistants and equipment while more and more people have turned to the private car as their mode of transportation.

Lincoln City Lines for years has been in a vicious circle of decline for which no answer has ever been found. All the equipment and service techniques there are have been tried in one place or another but to no avail. The industry is one that has been and continues to be sick from a variety of sources. While the details of the current rate increase are unknown, the situation in general tends to confirm the validity of the proposal. Also, proposed fares still do not seem excessive in view of current cost of living figures.

Almost A State Problem Now

Figures published this week by the U.S. Department of Agriculture relate that as of May 1 the U.S. wheat supplies available for carryover or for export are 704 million bushels.

A year ago May 1 the available supply was 968 million bushels. In 1964 it was 1.05 billion bushels.

Obviously the activity of the federal farm program and of the farmer-producers are winning the battle against oppressive surpluses. Unfortunately they are not winning the battle proportionately for improved prices.

Long ago, when our population was less, the ever normal granary was said to be adequate with 600 million bushels in the bin. The ever normal granary was a fictional term for the amount of wheat that would preserve the nation against a crop failure — a reserve against a speculative future.

Now with a population of 200 million it would seem that the normal increase in size of the reserve would be greater than our present 704 million bushels.

It appears now that our production is in near balance with needed supplies we should get down to the bed rock problem of getting an adequate price for the grain.

We are getting rid of farmers at such a rate that they are no longer an effective political group nationally and we are thus depopulating the agrarian states and this is bringing on problems of taxation and weakening political fabric to a serious point. We grant that gigantic machinery in control of a great landowner can supply the national demand and even make the owner reasonably wealthy. But a state lives by people. If the trend continues it will one day cease to be a farm problem. It will be a problem of survival to more than one state, Nebraska included.

Editor Is Sustained

In 1962, on election day, James E. Mills, editor of the Birmingham, Alabama, Post-Herald, published an editorial calling for the abolition of the city's commission form of government—a question the voters that day were deciding.

Suit was brought against him for violating Alabama's electioneering law. The case has not yet been brought to trial but this week the U.S. Supreme Court in a 9-0 decision said the anti-electioneering statute could not be applied to the editor. Justice John M. Harlan, though agreeing with the decision, observed that it was untimely. The court should have waited until after Mills had been prosecuted.

Justice Hugo Black said for the high court, "Suppression of the right of the press to praise or criticize governmental agents and to clamor for or against change, muzzles one of the agencies the framers of our Constitution thoughtfully and deliberately selected to improve our society and keep it free."

The only good thing about this action is that it provided cause for a re-statement of the old principle of a free society. One even must differ with Justice Harlan that the court should have stayed its hand until after the editor had gone through the pain of prosecution.

It is surprising that a little rancor, or even disagreement could cause his critics to forget the basics of free speech. The full ventilation of any public question is more than a right. It is an essential to a balanced judgment.

The great weakness of a totalitarian government lies in its prohibition of all expressions except one. If the one view is wrong there is no way to prevent the dissolution of that society. And no human mind has yet been able inevitably to make the correct decision.

Green One Of Great Senators

WASHINGTON — A great man died in Rhode Island last week at the age of 98. Theodore Francis Green achieved many landmarks in his long life and, as an old friend, I cannot let him leave without noting some of them.

I remember him at the age of 86 or so still as active as a jumping bean, playing badminton at our farm. And I especially remember him as the last senator who really investigated campaign contributions with penetrating, old-fashioned vigor. If there were more of this today there wouldn't be any Doddism.

And I remember his remarkable memory, and his graphic description of the 16 presidents of the United States he had met as nearly a century of American history rolled by.

☆ ☆ ☆

But what I remember vividly about the late Senator from Rhode Island was that he knew when to quit. Lyndon Johnson, then a senator, told me the story.

Lyndon was presiding over the Senate Preparedness Committee on the morning of Jan. 29, 1958, when he received a note from Green asking that LBJ see him. Lyndon turned the gavel over to another senator and went to Green's office where the 91-year-old senator showed him an editorial from the Providence Journal urging that he resign as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee because of age.

"It's true that I can't hear the way I used to and I'm embarrassed by it," said the oldest senator ever to serve in the Senate. "I want your advice. Should I resign?"

Sen. Johnson advised in the negative. There was a little more discussion, and Lyndon went back to his preparedness committee.

☆ ☆ ☆

At 4:45 p.m., Johnson got another note that Senator Green wanted to see him in his office. When he entered, the old man had his head down on his chest, his eyes closed as if asleep. But as the younger man entered, the elder looked up and chuckled.

"I've got a lot of service out of the majority leader today," he said.

"I've decided not to take your advice," he continued. "I'm going to resign—though not because of these slanted newspaper editorials.

"There are three things I love in life. One is the United States of America. One is the Senate. One is the Foreign Relations Committee. In fairness to them I'm going to resign as chairman. I'm going to remain a member of the committee and participate in its work, but I'm going to give up the chairmanship. I think it's better that way.

"I can't always hear the witnesses, and I can't always read the statements they turn in. I come up here every Saturday and Sunday and spend all day reading in order to keep up, but I have to confess I fall behind. So it's only fair that I resign."

"You're my majority leader," he said, "so I've written you my letter of resignation. I'm sorry to ignore your advice."

Viet Nam Looks Like Big Issue

WASHINGTON — President Johnson privately justifies his recent sneers at Viet Nam dissenters on the ground that Democratic candidates this fall have more to fear from Republican hard-liners than from rivals who want a negotiated peace.

This is a matter of political judgment. The President supported his own judgment in two fiery speeches when he sought to bulldoze himself and his policy into the midterm elections. He wrote the second of these scorchers on the plane to Chicago, where he delivered it with relish.

Some Democrats who would have agreed with him early this spring are now not so sure. They find deep discontent just below the surface when Viet Nam is mentioned, and it is mentioned more and more. The strongest Johnson supporters agree it is the compelling issue of a very difficult campaign.

Democratic defeats will not help the President, and there is no reason to believe he is not giving his supporters the benefit of his best judgment. Yet it is a fact that his judgment in this matter also justifies his plans, now openly talked of by one advisor, Gen. Maxwell Taylor, to increase the number of American ground forces in Viet Nam to 400,000.

☆ ☆ ☆

This was apparently in the works before the South Vietnamese began fighting each other with American materiel. This spectacle has damaged the American voter attitude, as members of Congress are discovering with every day's mail.

Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky and his military government are winning their civil war at the moment, but casualty figures show that Americans recently have been doing most of the fighting against the Viet Cong. This is hardly a palatable dish to set before the country.

Ky's chances to achieve political stability at home are unproved, even if he does present the United States with a triumph against his rivals. Questions of this kind are evaded here, and the general mood is defensive.

☆ ☆ ☆

As Democrats contemplate the days ahead, they uncover surprising contradictions. A senator as belligerent as the President finds himself challenged by a so-called dove and mourns that he would prefer to run against a hard-liner. He explains that he could then draw back somewhat and "comfort the afflicted."

Another who prefers a peace-with-honor stance finds himself up against a rival who asks audiences: are you satisfied? Few seem to be.

This discontent verging upon apprehension is beginning to remind the beleaguered campaigners of 1966 of the 1946 Republican congressional triumph won on meat shortages and other postwar discontent. Republicans had only that issue, but it was enough. The voters got it out of their systems and in 1948 re-elected President Truman.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Diplomacy Like A TV Rerun

WASHINGTON — With the summer reruns beginning on television, the news on the diplomatic side also has that tired, rerun quality. It is the familiar formula of the good guys versus the bad guys, with the good guys winning in a final burst of rifle fire just before the last commercial.

President Charles De Gaulle of France is cast as the heavy villain in the episodes just ahead. In the fastness of the Elysee Palace in Paris, he has been plotting to pull down the pillars of a United Europe. So Destry, in the person of Secretary of State Dean Rusk, rides again, this time to the NATO meetings in Brussels.

At Brussels the NATO ministers will begin studying where to locate NATO's new headquarters, now that the deadline for De Gaulle's eviction notice is near. Whether it is London or Bonn or somewhere in Belgium or Holland, the uprooting process will be painful and costly. The United States will pay most of the bill of not less than a half billion dollars for relocating the transportation communications complex embedded in the heart of France.

☆ ☆ ☆

Physically this can be accomplished. A show of hands will put the NATO partners, excluding France, on the side of Washington. But if Rusk presents the old formula of NATO as a military alliance with the goal of standing off the threat of the Soviet Union, it will be a triumph with little real meaning.

For the signs are multiplying that discontent with NATO is not confined to De Gaulle. After a survey of principal NATO capitals, Arnaud De Borchgrave, Newsweek senior editor in Europe, reported recently that the unrest with the old military concept—the standfast line—as widespread. European diplomats have long been saying this in private.

In the cold calculation of unity versus nationalistic rivalry, the odds for peace or war, De Gaulle can be scored against on one point after another by the Washington scorekeepers. It is too early, however, to say where the blame will ultimately rest. In 1958, De Gaulle proposed a tripartite arrangement, with France, Britain, and the United States to cover all foreign policy determinations everywhere.

The French logic was that if the United States with its vast nuclear superiority was to get into a war in whatever part of the globe, the principal NATO allies would be involved; and, therefore, they should be in on the takeoff as well as the crash landing. The Eisenhower administration, after backing and filling about "consultations," let the matter drop. The French argument today is that the truly crucial decisions are the nuclear decisions and, if the allies are excluded from this area, then the NATO alliance has little meaning.

But it was in the following year that De Gaulle's obstructionism was so costly. Secretary of State Christian Herter, who has never had his just due, initiated a break-through with the Soviet Union. President Eisenhower received Khrushchev in September and he was to have returned that visit in November. There was every indication that his appeal for peaceful co-existence and a pause in the arms race would have had wide popular response. But De Gaulle insisted that he have his own session with Khrushchev before this encounter. The Eisenower visit was delayed, the 1960 summit meeting collapsed over the shooting down of a U-2 plane over Soviet territory, and Ike never went to Moscow. In retrospect, this may have been a last chance for an East-West understanding.

Now De Gaulle is off to Moscow. He arrives on June 20 and he speaks on June 21, which will be the 25th anniversary of the German invasion of Russia. No one doubts that he will discuss the postwar German boundaries and perhaps even about the neutralization of Germany.

The talk here about De Gaulle's mission to Moscow sounds like whistling past the graveyard. It will be show, flattery, nothing substantive. Yet, at the very least, he seems likely to come away with an agreement for co-operation in space, nuclear energy and perhaps other fields as well. This is the kind of opening for which Europe has been groping. The NATO powers in Europe are rapidly increasing their trade with the communist bloc, and this will lead to other forms of co-operation.

This suggests — above all in the timing — that Rusk at Brussels has an unparalleled opportunity for an act of creative statesmanship. The Vietnamese war, it may be argued, makes it impossible. But if he were to propose a new approach to solving East-West differences, he would find a response in NATO that would alter the present outlook and might even contribute to an eventual solution of the Viet Nam conflict.

BOB CONSIDINE

One Young American Says It All

NEW YORK — A Providence (R.I.) college senior eager to go on into post graduate work but acutely aware of the hot breath of Uncle Sam on his neck, writes to a young girl friend:

"One thing you've got to understand about me. When I was born they stamped 'Made in the U.S.A.' across my derriere and the tears of a million peace marchers has failed to wash away that mark.

"If they say 'go!' I'll go, for there are men no better and no worse than myself who have gone and some who've stayed—and all this for the American Citizen Soldier's Dream: do it and do it well and get the hell home.

"But it's more than this. Men fight, American men, thousands of miles from those they love just for the reason that those they love might never know the bitter gall of war firsthand . . . that our 'kids's' only knowledge of war and all it entails will be learned strictly from history books and Hollywood re-runs.

"If we were not at war, it would be this particular kid for the Peace Corps. It's a lot better and easier to talk to people without having to shout over the din of gunfire."

☆ ☆ ☆

Ran across an alarming prognostication. DMS Inc., the aerospace market research firm in the United States, predicts that 10 years from now there will be 200,000 private planes in our sky.

That is, of course, if Ralph Nader doesn't have a book on the stands at the time entitled, "Unsafe—At Any Altitude."

The sheer horror of having our supersonic transports trying to land in New York or L.A., or San Francisco through a blizzard of small planes filled with Joe Bananas, the wife and the kids, out for a sightseeing flight, will not be pursued here and now.

Alarms about the proliferation of methods of conveyance have been sounded before. When the first pedestrian was killed by an automobile, here in New York City in 1889, there were indignant editorials to the effect that the horseless carriage was a much too lethal form of locomotion — and they decried the fact that nearly 3,000 of these diabolical machines had been turned loose in the United States. Today Detroit makes 3,000 cars after turning off the power at the plant at the end of a day's work. They pop off the production lines from sheer momentum, as the machines grind to a stop.

So maybe my children and grandchildren will laugh in the 1970s when, for kicks, they re-read this yellowed clipping that deplores the coming of a day when there will be two private planes in every garage.

☆ ☆ ☆

The hassle over whether the Air Force shot down a Chinese plane 20 miles south of the Chinese border or 20 miles in over Yunnan Province doesn't seem likely to plunge the U.S. and Red China into war. Invasion of "air space" is becoming much less of an issue than it was, let's say, on May 1, 1960 when U-2 Pilot Francis Gary Powers was shot down over Sverdlovsk and the State Department at first said, lamely that he was a weather-sampling pilot whose plane must have been blown off course. Now the U.S., Soviet Union and Red China are criss-crossed daily, and many times, by Soviet-American spying satellites, and nobody gets around to beefing—and won't until one of the sides comes up with a method of shooting the other side's out of space.

Our New York World's Fair is still being carted away, leaving gaping wounds that one day will grow green where red (ink) once predominated. To the north, on two islands in the St. Lawrence River, another fair begins to rise: Expo 67. It has the blessing of the little old couple in Switzerland who have the power to declare whether a fair is a "world's fair" or beyond the pale—as ours was. Expo 67 will run six months and probably make money, as did the Seattle fair.

Russia, which ignored our fine show, is spending $15 million on its pavilion at Expo 67, which will be spread on land only minutes from downtown Montreal. The investment is second only to the host country's $21 million exhibit. The U.S. Congress has cut our participation from a $12 million budget to $9.3 million. A bridge, already nicknamed The Bridge of Sighs, will connect the exhibits of the U.S. and USSR.

The Soviet Union plans to send the Bolshoi Ballet, the Red Army Chorus and some of the priceless art of Leningrad's Hermitage to balance its standard display of heavy tractors, Sputniks, voskhods and weighty propaganda. We're answering with a pavilion 20 stories high, sparingly furnished with goodies ranging from offbeat art works to automated lunanauts exploring the moon.

American Express, handling advance ticket sales in the U.S., expects more than 5,000,000 Americans to make the trip to Montreal. The Canadians are selling advance tickets at cut rates, and assure Americans that the Canadian equivalent of Sally Rand, and all that involves, will be prominently bared on Expo 67's Midway.

Apparently the GOP cannot escape the temptation to be a "me, too" party. Hardly had the nation (and the Baptist Church) recovered from that picture of Rev. Jack D. Moyers doing a wicked frug at a White House party when Dick Nixon was escorted to the platform at a fund-raising dinner in Pittsburgh by a covey of frisky "go-go girls," throwing bumps.

"I never saw anything like that in my life, but I like it," a Republican matron squealed.

Hospital Council Endorses Bill Dealing With VA Facility

Lincoln Hospital and Health Council members Tuesday endorsed a Senate bill that would mean including the Veterans' Administration Hospital in the Capital City's community medical planning organization.

S2748, introduced by Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough, D-Tex., also provides for the sharing of medical technology and equipment between the VA hospitals and other public and private hospitals to avoid expensive duplication and to get interchange of patients, Julian Hopkins reported to the council.

Council members directed that the endorsement be forwarded to members of the Nebraska congressional delegation and Sen. Yarborough.

State Health Director Dr. E. A. Rogers will be invited to the council's next meeting to discuss proposed House of Representatives legislation that would provide funds to strengthen the State Department of Health and promote comprehensive health planning and public health services.

According to the House bill, Hopkins pointed out, 30% of allocated funds must be spent at the state level and 15% for mental health activities.

Council member Ed Faulkner commented that the bill would serve to "intensify the acute shortage" of persons caring for the sick by diverting doctors from medical care to research and administration.

In other action Tuesday the council re-elected all of its officers, retaining Joe R. Seacrest as president, Robert Crosby, vice president and Don Parker, secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. George W. Knight was named to fill the vacancy on the board created by Sen. John Knight's resignation.

Hospital council members approved an addition to its bylaws inviting representatives from the Lincoln Dental Society and other groups having special interest in hospitals and medical facilities to attend all meetings and participate in discussions but not be permitted to vote.

Ministers Study Effectiveness Of Clinical Pastoral Education

Nebraska ministers from all denominations met here Tuesday to explore the effectiveness of clinical pastoral education and consider future continuing education programs for pastors in a meeting called by four Lincoln and Omaha chaplains.

Each trained at least 12 weeks in clinical pastoral education at some kind of hospital or correctional institution, the 24 ministers shared ideas in dealing with parishioners and related needs of local ministers in the area of counseling.

In addition to providing a forum for communication among the church leaders, the institution chaplains, who generally sponsor and lead informal opportunities for clinical education, discovered needs of outstate ministers for future program planning.

Chaplains Louis B. Reed of Bryan Memorial Hospital, Frank S. Moyer of Community Services Division in the Nebraska Psychiatric Institute, George Edgar of Lincoln State Hospital and William Hasenyager of Southeast Psychiatric Clinic headed the session Monday.

Reed and the Rev. Mr. Jack Schwarz of the Crete United Church of Christ, opened the all-day program with a discussion of the relevance of clinical pastoral education for the parish ministry.

Addressing the ministers on comprehensive community mental health centers and the parish pastor was Dr. Noel Haukebo, director of the West Nebraska Psychiatric Clinic in Scottsbluff.

Moyer and the Rev. Mr. William Nisi of the Harvard United Church of Christ spoke on future possibilities of clinical pastoral education.

Omahan Accused Of Picking Recruit For Maltreatment

San Diego, Calif. (UPI) — The prosecution Tuesday accused a Marine Corps drill instructor of hitting and kicking a recruit as part of "a consistent and persistent course of maltreatment" aimed at ridding the corps of the man.

Lt. Col. Robert Eastman made the statement as part of his opening remarks at the court-martial of Sgt. Russell P. Armstrong, 23, of Omaha, who is charged with three counts of maltreatment and one of assault with intent to cause grievous bodily injury to recruit Robert F. Pierce, Jr., 23, Onida, S. D. Pierce was hospitalized March 24 with kidney failure, which Eastman said resulted from a blow to the stomach.

Armstrong entered a formal plea of innocent.

Eastman told the court that doctors advised Pierce should not be removed from Oak Knoll Naval Hospital in Oakland, where he has been undergoing treatment. Pierce's deposition then was accepted as evidence and was read.

Eastman said he would prove Pierce was singled out by Armstrong for consistent maltreatment. He said Pierce reported March 22 at the Marine Corps recruit depot overweight, in poor physical condition and unable to do more than minimum exercises.

He said he would prove Armstrong insulted Pierce by word, "did kick him, did step on his hand and did take him into a hut and strike him with his fist." In addition, he said, he would prove that the following day Pierce was having severe abdominable pains and showing other signs of illness but Armstrong took him into a hut and kicked him in the leg.

Two members of the court martial board were challenged and excused Tuesday and a third was absent, leaving six officers to try the defendant.

Armstrong, a veteran of nearly five years in the Marine Corps, could be sentenced to a maximum of seven years confinement at hard labor, forfeiture of pay and a dishonorable discharge if he is convicted of the charges filed against him.

Girl Finds Man's Body While Playing

A nine-year-old girl found the body of a dead man Tuesday evening while playing with a friend, police officials reported.

Police identified the body as that of Robert Markhanna of Sedalia, Mo. The death was apparently due to natural causes officials said following an autopsy.

The body was found, on a concrete apron just below a culvert opening, by Laurie Mendoza, 431 So. 1st., while she was playing just south of the railroad tracks at 1st and J.

She told police, "At first I just saw the boots, but then when I saw it was a body, I ran to get help. I didn't know whether he was dead or not."

DOUGLAS GIRL HURT IN CRASH

A nine-year-old girl suffered minor injuries in an automobile accident at 27th and Sheridan Tuesday noon.

The child, Gale M. Canfield of Douglas, was riding in an eastbound car driven by her mother, Naomi L. Canfield, when they were in collision with a car driven by Roy E. Harp, 78, of 2948 P, moving south on 27th.

Gale was taken to Bryan Memorial Hospital where she was released after treatment of her injuries.

Klinefelter Award Is Presented To Mrs. B. E. Stanton

The H. E. Klinefelter Award for Superior Editing of Publicantions of Cooperatives was presented to Mrs. Beryle E. Stanton of the U.S. Department of Agriculture by the Cooperative Editorial Association Tuesday night.

The association, a group of editors of publications by and for farm and city cooperatives, held its annual training meeting in the Nebraska Center of Continuing Education Tuesday.

William Belaney of Pontiac, Mich., was elected president of the association for the coming year. Other officers elected were: Walter Seaborg of Madison, Wis., vice president; Helen Spurzen, Washington, D.C., secretary; Gene Ingalsbe, Kansas City, Kan., treasurer.

Ten Students Pass Lincoln Flight School

Ten students at Lincoln Southeast and Northeast High Schools were honored Tuesday afternoon for completing the first flight ground school in the Lincoln school system.

The school was established by Supt. Steven Watkins, and Col. Williams H. Bowers, professor of aerospace studies at the University of Nebraska, to provide instruction of sufficient scope to qualify students in the basic principles of flight.

The program included preflight planning, federal aviation regulations, navigation, computer and aviation weather. All sessions were held in the evening and attendance was voluntary, according to Capt. Bruce H. Mosley, assistant professor of aerospace studies at the University. With this training the student may go on to receive flight training and ultimately earn a private pilot's license.

Northeast students who completed the course included Ray J. Bossung, Douglas R. Campbell, Frank Mitchell, Mike Morell, David Pierce, Donald Spinar, Eric Watkins, and Brad Wells. Jackie Hopkins and Konrad Winters of Lincoln Southeast also completed the program.

Minimum Wage Coverage Of Farm Workers Seen By Rep. Callan As Aid To Nebraskans

Washington (UPI) — Rep. Clair Callan, D-Neb., said minimum wage coverage of farm workers would help family farms in his eastern Nebraska district.

He said he would oppose an amendment by Rep. Dave Martin, R-Neb., to exclude farm labor from the minimum wage bill now being debated in the house.

The measure would provide a $1-an-hour minimum wage for farm workers beginning next Feb. 1, with increases of 15 cents for the next two years.

Callan said he based his decision on a special study prepared for him by the University of Nebraska. He said a farmer must have seven employes before the legislation would apply, "and there is none like that in my district."

The minimum wage requirement would apply to big corporation-type farms, he said, and would, if anything, "make the family farm more competitive."

Callan said he would support two other amendments scheduled to be offered.

One, by Rep. Thomas G. Morris, D-N.M., would make 1970 the final step-up of the minimum hourly wage to $1.60, instead of the Feb. 1, 1968, date provided in the bill.

"The Morris amendment is more along the economic guidelines, and in Nebraska this has merit," Callan said.

He also saw merit in the proposal of Rep. William H. Ayres, R-Ohio, to eliminate the proposed coverage of laundry workers whose employers do business under federal contract.

"The contracts represent 15-20% of the business of some firms, but they would have to pay the higher wages and couldn't be competitive," Callan said.

Weaver Mansion Brings $45,000; May Save House

Falls City (AP)—The old Weaver mansion, built in 1876-78 and first occupied by Judge Archibald Jerard Weaver, was sold at auction for $45,000 Tuesday to K. E. Morehead, Falls City auto dealer.

Morehead said he plans to use the grounds in his automobile business and will look into the possibility of moving the house so that it can be preserved.

The sale was on petition of some heirs of the Weaver family.

Some of the other heirs and the State Historical Society have expressed interest in preserving the mansion as a state landmark.

Eight things every driver should carry with him over Memorial Day.

It's spring. Relax, roll down the window, smell the fresh air. But don't overdo a good thing. Consider these suggestions from the General Motors Proving Grounds.

1. If this is your first trip since winter, make sure your car has been rechecked and prepared for summer. Have the tires checked for worn spots and cuts. Have springs and shock absorbers looked at, and don't forget wheel alignment and wheel bearings. And make sure the cooling system is ready.

2. Be careful of backseat riders. The best way to keep the kids off your neck (literally) is by giving them something more interesting to do than bothering you. A simple game to play on the seat can help. (And remember: Beware of kids bearing little lollipop sticks. Try gumdrops instead, they're soft.)

3. Door locks aren't only for keeping out people who don't belong in your car. They are equally helpful at keeping you and your family in. (And don't forget to remind your little ones how important it is to not play with door locks and handles. You can't remind them too often.)

4. All the '66 GM cars have outside rearview mirrors and seat belts. They work very well if you use them. Every test driver is asked to never start up without snapping his seat belt and pulling it down tight near the hips. And after you readjust the inside mirror, put the outside one in position, too.

5. The guy who's tailgating you is very much your problem. You're the one he'll hit if he can't stop in time. The best thing to do is to let him pass you.

6. It's a good idea to watch what you eat. Heavy, big meals on the road make you tired and sluggish. Try things like cheeseburgers and a glass of milk.

7. Grab your sunglasses. You'll need them. We've also found an extra advantage to wearing them. Your night vision is better if you've worn sunglasses during the day. (But a lot worse if you wear them at night.)

8. What you can't see at night can hurt you. During the day you often have 10,000 candlepower of sunlight. At night, your headlights might be all you have to depend on. Be sure they're operating properly before you start, and keep them clean when you're on the road. That goes for your taillights and turn signals, too.

These suggestions can help make your holidays safer and more enjoyable. They do for our test drivers.

One of the most important things we've learned about safety over the last 58 years is this:

Safe driving depends on three things. THE CAR THE ROAD AND YOU Pass it on.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

A sunny day at Waikiki where they're having the biggest building boom since the big hotels began shading each other's sands at Miami Beach.

"It is very hard to get land in fee simple," a hotel man told me. "Land is not for sale. They lease it to you. You build a hotel on it. Build up a clientele. And when you come up for renegotiation of your lease—zowie! They let you have it."

Some of Waikiki is up for renegotiation now. And all Hawaii is guessing — astronomically — what the new lease will cost.

☆ ☆ ☆

When the New England missionaries arrived in 1820, all Hawaii land belonged to King Kamehameha II, oldest son of the first, great Kamehameha.

It was a benevolent sort of ownership—when the missionaries tried to break it up into private ownership, Boston style, Hawaiians wept that the country was losing a spiritual virtue.

The land was finally divided by Kamehameha III in the "Great Mahele." A third went to the King. A third to the alii, the hereditary chiefs. A third to the people.

It set up a basis for great estates and ownership. It was confirmed by the United States when it took over the islands in 1898—a piece of colony-grabbing that gets rather fuzzy when you read it in our history books.

The largest holding is the Bishop Estate, estimated as 10% of all the eight islands. This comes from Princess Bernice Pauahi, last of the Kamehameha line. She married a clerk named Charles Bishop. Her will, filed in 1884, set up the trust for the Kamehameha School for Girls and Boys.

It was rated at the time at $300,000.

The last (1964) judgment of the State tax assessors was $248 million.

On these expensive sands, the surfers lie in the morning sun. The boys in "jams," the girls in "jellies."

"Jams" are knee-length surfer pants with a T-shirt top. It looks something like the underwear my grandma made me wear. (They caused me great humiliation when I had to undress for gym.)

"Jellies" are for girls: bell-bottom trousers and a sort of halter effect above the bare midriff. Both are very popular and very "in." You wouldn't be caught dead in anything but "jams" and "jellies."

☆ ☆ ☆

For the older folks—("never trust anybody over 30")—well, we are still in boxer shorts for men. Bikinis or standard bathing suits for the ladies.

Aloha shirts are getting flowery again after a decade of solid color with a modest palm tree insignia etched on the pocket.

☆ ☆ ☆

Item of interest: The big rummy mai tai, invented by Trader Vic Bergeron and favorite of the Islands, sells for $1.50 minimum. At $2.50 at Laurance Rockefeller's plush Mauna Kea on the Big Island.

☆ ☆ ☆

Item: Half the people in this newest state are under 25. (And presumably don't trust anyone over 30.)

It's a healthy place to live. Last figures I could get—1962—17,932 babies were born; only 3,512 people died.

Caucasians and Japanese are about equal in number. But Caucasians had almost twice as many babies. What happen deh, brudda?

The sun shines bright. The classified "help wanted" runs two solid pages. Prices, wages and buildings are going up. Aloha to all!

Sen. Curtis Asks For Publication Of Prestige Polls

Washington (AP)—Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., has asked Secretary of State Dean Rusk to restore a policy of making public the results of prestige polls taken in other countries in connection with United States policies.

The senator noted that during debates between the late John F. Kennedy and Richard M. Nixon in 1960, Kennedy repeatedly asked the administration make public results of United States Information Agency reports on results of prestige polls taken abroad on U.S. policies.

President Eisenhower opened up the files and the Kennedy Administration continued this but sometime in 1963 there was a movement to keep the poll results secret, Curtis said.

In asking Rusk to restore the policy, the senator said he was not requesting that any information be made public that would damage the national security.

Court Rules Baker Winner In Selma

Mobile, Ala. (UPI) — A federal court, in effect, declared Wilson Baker the winner Tuesday over segregationist Jim Clark in the Dallas County Democratic primary for sheriff, but a county official called the ruling "meaningless."

U.S. District Judge Daniel H. Thomas ordered the Dallas County Democratic Executive Committee to count previously rejected ballots from six predominantly Negro polling places. The committee threw out the ballots after Clark charged there had been irregularities in the voting.

Later, Clark challenged the entire election, not just the six boxes, and it was this fact that led Executive Committee Chairman Alston M. Keith to brand the court ruling meaningless.

"We will name Baker the nominee, "Keith said, "but Clark's contest still takes precedent."

Baker was Selma public safety director at the time of the massive Selma-to-Montgomery civil rights march. He took a less harsh approach to the demonstrators than Clark, and earned the reputation of a racial moderate, by Selma standards.

He quit his post to run against Clark in the May 3 primary. The executive committee had ordered the two into a runoff May 31, but the federal court action gives Baker a clear majority of 8,994 to 7,537.

The court challenge was filed by the Justice Department and was unique in U.S. legal history. Never before had the agency gone into court in a local primary election seeking to have one candidate declared the winner over another.

Groups To Attend Safety Workshop For Legislation

Representatives of over 40 Nebraska agencies and organizations with traffic safety responsibilities will participate in a Legislative Workshop on Traffic Safety this Friday at the Nebraska Center.

A representative number of members of and candidates for the Nebraska Legislature will also be present, according to Tom Carroll of the Nebraska Safety Council who is serving as workshop manager.

"It is hoped that from this body of reports a concensus will develop on vitally needed safety legislation behind which a coordinated effort for a state-wide education program can be developed prior to the 1967 session of the Nebraska Legislature," Mr. Carroll said.

Lancaster County Commissioners Tuesday approved 117 more claims totaling $2,431 for refunds on 1963 penalties collected on personal property taxes and four more 1962 claims for $24.33.

The board is approving the claims as provided for in a law passed by the 1965 Legislature after the Supreme Court declared the penalties unconstitutional.

In other action, the board set June 7 for public hearing on an application for a bottle club license filed by Merles Inc. of Emerald. The establishment has a beer license.

Union Pacific Banquet To Reveal Plan For Land Northeast Of City

Union Pacific Railroad Co. will announce its "intentions and plans" for Lincoln at a luncheon for public officials, Chamber of Commerce representatives, other civic leaders and the news media on Friday.

"The Union Pacific is vitally interested in the industrial future of Lincoln," said UP President E. H. Bailey in extending the invitation.

It has been suggested that the disclosure Friday will reveal UP plans for the disposition of approximately 1,500 acres of land northwest of the city which has been systematically bought up for several months.

Involved is an area bounded on the west by Lincoln Municipal Airport and Burlington and Union Pacific tracks, on the north by U.S. 34 and on the east by Interstate 80. The site is only a mile west of the developing Belmont residential section.

Asked in January if the Union Pacific had any interest in the land acquisition, a spokesman for the Omaha-based railroad said at that time, "there is nothing I can say just now, however a story should be forthcoming at a later date".

About 800 acres had been bought outright early this year, and options were obtained on another undetermined amount of land. Negotiations have proceeded since on other property.

Union Pacific has been active in promoting industrial development in other principal cities which it serves. The railroad has purchased or optioned large areas of property in Denver, Colo., for instance, either for industrial use by the UP or an industrial client.

A UP official contacted Tuesday said he would rather withhold comment until the Friday announcement.

Peterson Files Expense Report

Val Peterson, a former three - term Nebraska governor who was unsuccessful in his bid for the Republican nomination for that office this past primary election, Tuesday reported his personal expenses during the campaign amounted to $680.

Peterson said he paid a public relations firm $500 for work during the race and also spent $180 for his filing fee.

George Meister, the Democratic candidate for secretary of state, reported his campaign expenses totaled $125, the fee for the office.

Cuban Wounded Inside Base Fence, U.S. Says

Washington (AP)— The U.S. government said Tuesday a Cuban infiltrator was shot after he penetrated the outer fence at the Guantanamo Naval Base Saturday night but denied this had anything to do with suspension of the Cuban refugee airlift.

The State Department said refugee plane flights were halted last Friday, before the shooting incident. The department said the airlift was suspended when Cuba notifed this country that its pool of potential refugees with close relatives in the United States was exhausted and it wanted to switch to refugees who have no "immediate family" connections here.

The United States has agreed to this, the department said, and asked that refugee flights be resumed Wednesday or Thursday. Press officer Robert J. McCloskey said about 22,000 refugees with family ties in this country have been flown here since the air-lift started last December.

He added, "Our records show that several thousand who have been processed for transportation to the United States remain in Cuba."

McCloskey expressed belief there are several hundred thousand eligible refugees without immediate family connections in the United States.

The Defense Department issued a statement on the naval base shooting after Cuban Armed Forces Minister Raul Castro referred to it in a Havana speech as "the latest crime of North American imperialism in our territory." Castro said a man named Luis Ramirez Lopez was killed by U.S. guards at Guantanamo.

Warning Shot Fired

A Pentagon statement said an armed Cuban soldier was observed inside the perimeter fence and a warning shot was fired by a U.S. Marine sentry.

"When the Cuban infiltrator ignored the warning shot, a second shot was fired which resulted in the wounding of the Cuban," the statement said.

The U.S. Marine was not identified. A spokesman said the incident is being investigated.

The State Department said, "As far as we know there is no connection between the interruption of the airlift operation and the shooting . . ."

Foreign Reporters Can't Accompany RFK

Pretoria, South Africa (AP)— The South African government Wednesday banned foreign newsmen from entering this country to cover the visit next month of U.S. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y.

A government statement said it would not allow "such a visit to be transformed into a publicity stunt, whether as a buildup for a future presidential election or for other reasons."

Kennedy is due June 6 for a four-day visit, including a speech to the National Union of South African Students.

NUSAS President Ian Robertson, 21, has been placed under a ban by the government as a result of the invitation to Kennedy.

The government statement said visas will not be issued to newsmen wishing to enter South Africa during Kennedy's visit, and entry facilities will be withheld from those not requiring visas.

It said there are sufficient newsmen in South Africa, including representatives of the world's leading news agencies, to cover Kennedy's tour.

Mayor Approves Two Cable Bids

Mayor Dean Petersen Tuesday approved two bids to supply cable for the Lincoln Electric System.

Contracts awarded were to Tiney's Electric, $10,759.32 for 39,600 feet of No. 336.4 cable, and to Korsmeyer Electric, $4,250, for 50,000 feet of triplex cable.

Girl's Torture-Slayers Given Life Sentences

Indianapolis, Ind. (UPI) — A criminal court judge Tuesday sentenced a mother of seven and her 18-year-old daughter to life imprisonment for the torture slaying of a 16-year-old girl who boarded in their home.

Judge Saul I. Rabb also rejected recommendations of court investigators and sentenced three teen-age boys, including the mother's 13-year-old son, to 2-to-21-year terms in the Indiana Reformatory for their part in the torture of Sylvia Likens.

Rabb pronounced life sentences on Mrs. Gertrude Baniszewski, 37, and her daughter, Paula, who were found guilty of murder.

He sentenced John Banizewski and two 15-year-old neighbor boys, Richard Hobbs and Coy Hubbard, to the reformatory despite recommendations that they be shown leniency. The boys were convicted of manslaughter.

Within hours after the sentencings, Mrs. Baniszewski and Paula were taken to the Indiana Women's Prison, and the three boys were transferred to the reformatory at Pendleton.

Indiana Corrections Commissioner Bernard Dolnick said the boys were placed under supervision in quarters separate from other inmates in the walled institution normally reserved for adults.

John is the youngest prisoner ever admitted to the reformatory.

China Charges U.S. Warship Entered Waters

Tokyo (UPI) — Communist China charged Tuesday that a U.S. warship intruded into its coastal waters off Kwangtung province in what it denounced as a "military provocation."

The New China News Agency said the Peking foreign ministry had issued its 402nd "serious warning" concerning Tuesday's alleged incident.

Sweeping Civil Rights Plan Unveiled

Washington (AP) — Designers of next week's White House Conference on Civl Rights unveiled Tuesday a blueprint for sweeping action at all levels of government and private life to improve the Negro's lot in American society.

While acknowledging that all of the measures recommended might cost billions of dollars, Ben W. Heineman Jr., the railroad magnate who is organizing the conference, denied that the goals set forth are "pie in the sky."

And he described as regrettable the decision by one major civil rights group — the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee — to stay away from the conference, which is expected to attract more than 2,400 persons from virtually every walk of life.

The conference's planning council disclosed a 100-page report sent to all conferees this week. It contains dozens of recommendations for immediate and long range action to bring the Negro into equal status in housing, education, economic and job security, and the administration of justice.

Report to LBJ

The conferees will not be asked to vote on the measures, but their discussions and suggestions will be recorded and reflected in a report to be submitted to President Johnson a few weeks after the June 1-2 assembly.

While recommending federal and state governmental action in all fields, the council said such action "cannot succeed unless it is accompanied by a mobilization of effort by private citizens and the organizations and institutions through which they express their will."

The report said the federal government's response to the cry of the Negro for justice and equality "has not been matched by state and local government, by business and labor, the housing industry, educational institutions. and the wide spectrum of voluntary organizations who have the power to improve our society."

Called For End

In the field of education, the council called for an end to racial concentration in public schools — sometimes called de facto segregation—by "color conscious planning of school systems."

The council said private employers, unions and government must take immediate action provide more and better jobs for Negroes.

And it called for reform in the administration of justice.

One idea stressed by the council already is running into strong opposition in Congress — a call for "an absolutely open, racially unrestricted market in which housing is affirmatively merchandised to families and persons of all racial groups."

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, at a news conference Tuesday, reiterated his position that a provision in Johnson's new Civil Rights Bill to ban discrimination in housing sales and rentals is unconstitutional.

Opposition Expressed

Similar strong opposition was expressed at a House judiciary subcommittee hearing Tuesday on the bill along these lines:

—Alan L. Emlen, speaking for the National Association of Real Estate Boards: "an affront to the American tradition of freedom of contract."

—Rep. Armistead Selden, D-Ala.: it would make the U.S. homeowner "a vassal of the federal government."

Among the council's specific recommendations is a requirement that state licensing authorities demand proof that license to brokers and builders "show they are serving the entire public without distinction as to race" as a condition of being licensed.

Segregated Hospitals May Be Barred From Medicare

Washington (AP) — President Johnson was told Tuesday that about 1,000 hospitals, most of them in the South, may be barred from the medicare program because they discriminate against Negroes.

Officials expressed hope, however, that most of them would qualify for the program by the time it goes into effect July 1.

Johnson got a progress report on preparations for putting the program into effect. It was submitted by Secretary of Welfare John W. Gardner.

5,500 Certified

Gardner said 5,5000 hospitals have been certified for participation but 1,400 others are being investigated further.

Of these, about 1,000 face a possible barrier because the civil rights act prohibits medicare payments to institutions that practice discrimination.

The report also said medicare will add to the demand for medical services at a time when a significant shortage of health personnel and facilities already exists.

Increase Expected

On a nationwide basis, Gardner said utilization of hospitals is expected to increase by no more than 5% as a result of the program, "and in most of the country such an increase in utilization can be absorbed without too much difficulty."

However, he said the impact will be greater in areas with a high proportion of older residents.

The report said more than 90% of the nation's hospitals have asked to participate, with the civil rights requirement providing the largest stumbling block to certification.

Expert: Merger Could Improve Omaha Service

Chicago (UPI)—A transportation consultant testified that merger of the Rock Island and Union Pacific Railroads would equal or improve service between Omaha and Denver.

William Wyer, president of Wyer, Dick & Co., which prepared an extensive study of the proposed merger, testified as the Interstate Commerce Commission hearings entered their fourth week.

Attorney William L. McGovern cross-examined Wyer on the report. He tried to introduce evidence that Wyer's instructions to UP officials in evaluating his study were intended to produce a "conservative estimate" of the traffic diversion which would follow a UP-Rock Island merger.

Allen Boy Dies In Tractor Crash

The accident took place on a country road southeast of Allen, according to State Safety Patrol reports.

Morrison Defers Decision On Special Session

. . . TO REVIEW STATUS OF ALL TAX CASES PENDING IN SUPREME COURT

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Gov. Frank Morrison said Tuesday he is deferring decision on any special session call of the Legislature until he can review the status of all tax cases pending before the Nebraska Supreme Court.

The governor said he has directed Bill Peters, the state tax commissioner's attorney, to give him a list of all pending tax cases and an estimate of when Supreme Court decisions might be expected.

However, Morrison noted he has been legally advised any new law regarding state tangible or intangible taxes must be in effect by June 25 with emergency provisions to be effective for the 1965-66 tax year.

"Any special session would have to be called in sufficient time for the Legislature to act before that date (June 25)," he added.

"There's been a great deal of misunderstanding regarding the intangible tax law," he said. "The purposes of a special session would be to block further increases on tangible (real property) taxes."

"If revenue on intangibles is reduced, this means increases on real estate which is already too high," he added.

The Supreme Court decision of April 8 holding foreign corporation stock must be taxed at book rather than market value will result in an estimated $3 million tax revenue loss in the state.

Five-sixths of this loss will fall on city and county governments and local school districts. State government received only $1 million of the $6 million collected last year from Intangible B valuations (corporation stocks).

Commenting on the income tax referendum petition case slated for Supreme Court hearing June 2, Morrison said he believes Nebraskans "have the right to vote on the state income tax issue, and shouldn't be denied this right because of some legal technicality."

Lancaster District Judge Barlett E. Boyles had enjoined the referendum issue from the November ballot in holding that the 80,000 referendum signatures collected in the drive were invalid.

Morrison said he is opposed to any further increase on intangible property because of its stunting effect on industrial and economic growth in the state.

The governor indicated the primary tax cases in which he is interested are the eight counties who have appealed real estate valuations from the 1965 State Board of Equalization.

These cases were heard in April by the Supreme Court and decisions are expected soon.

In addition to the intangible tax situation, Morrison said he has been urged to include in any special call of the Legislature a large number of other issues.

He said these included LB-301, the educational service units bill, general revamping of Nebraska's tax base to include both an income and sales tax, permissive fair housing legislation, financial problems of Omaha and Lincoln resulting from the intangible tax case, and the University of Nebraska budget deficit.

Morrison said his position on a broadened-tax base has been misunderstood. "I favor a broadened base and spelled out for the last Legislature my recommendations for increases in taxes on tobacco, alcoholic beverages, and paramutuel betting, and a new tax on meals and lodging."

Court Denies Tax Case Rehearing

The Nebraska Supreme Court overruled Tuesday a motion for rehearing in a key intangible tax case and set June 2 for oral arguments on the income tax referendum petitions appeal.

The double action could open the way for an early call of a special session of the Legislature to deal with tax matters.

In denying a rehearing in the Douglas County case, the Supreme Court refused to alter its May 8 decision that foreign corporation stock owned by Nebraskans should be taxed at book value rather than the higher market value.

Two of the plaintiffs, Robert O. and Merle S. Rehkopf of Omaha, urged the court's reconsideration of their contention that foreign corporation stock should be taxed under the same formula as used for domestic or Nebraska-based corporation stock.

The formula is designed to give those shares little, if any, taxable value.

The high court in its 4-3 decision upholding the Douglas County District Court refused to go that far, ruling only that foreign corporation stock should be taxed at book value.

Nebraska taxes foreign corporation stock (known as Class B intangibles) at $4 per $1,000 valuation.

Nearly $6 million in corporation stock taxes were collected in the state last year. Bulk of this went to support city and county government and local schools. Only one-sixth went to state government.

State Tax Commissioner has estimated this tax take could be reduced by nearly $3 million as a result of the high court decision, forcing governmental subdivisions to take up the slack with real estate taxes.

Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton, chairman of the Legislature's revenue committee last session, has urged Gov. Frank Morrison to call a special session to deal with the state's intangible tax situation.

Scheduled for June 2 hearing is the referendum petitions originally challenged in a Lancaster County District Court case by John Klostermas of David City.

Lancaster District Judge Bartlett E. Boyles ruled the referendum petitions for a November vote on the state's income tax law ere invalid.

Man Caught, Woman Charged In Love Killing

Arkadelphia, Ark. (AP) — A bearded and mud-caked Glenn Stewart, sought in the Mother's Day slaying of an Indiana factory worker, gave himself up Tuesday. Authorities at Marion, Ind., charged the widow of the slain man in what they described as a love triangle murder.

TROOPER . . . Bill Ingram talks to Stewart.

The two developments came within hours of each other.

Stewart, 30, walked out of the densely wooded swamplands around this southwest Arkansas town at the end of a daylong manhunt, laid his rifle against a tree, and surrendered to State Trooper Bill Ingram.

"I told him I wasn't going to hurt him," Ingram said. "I put my shotgun down."

Got Scared

Stewart told Ingram he started to give himself up in the pre-dawn hours but said he became frightened and fled when his father called the sheriff.

"I was afraid you were going to shoot me," he said.

Stewart told a newsman in a glancing interview as officers took him to jail: "I'm innocent. I tried to help these people and they stabbed me in the back." There was no elaboration.

At Marion, prosecutor Robert Foust quoted Mrs. Larry Schmidt, 25, as changing her story from one of murder over a $50 debt and a 16-day trip of terror with the fleeing Stewart to a story of illicit love and well-planned murder.

In 5 Pieces

It was her first story, told from her parents' home at Sparta, Tenn., that led Indiana officers to Schmidt's body, cut in five pieces, in the dirt-floor basement of his Marion home Sunday.

Stewart was charged Monday with first-degree murder.

At that time, she said she and her children by a previous marriage, Nancy Goodwin, 8, and Jimmy Goodwin, 6, had been forced to accompany Stewart from Indiana to his home at Arkadelphia, then had escaped while he slept.

Foust said in filing the charge that he didn't think Mrs. Schmidt committed the actual stabbing of Schmidt, 30, but said he believed she was a conspirator.

Implicates Herself

Marion Police Chief Ted Null said Mrs. Schmidt started implicating herself during the day of questioning and pinpointed the day of the slaying as May 8, Mother's Day.

She told officers she and Stewart used a knife to kill her husband, than a hacksaw to cut off his arms and legs.

She, Stewart and her two children left that night for Arkansas, officers quoted her as saying.

Stewart let her and the children go when he decided they were hindering his escape, Null quoted the woman as saying.

She took a bus from Arkadelphia to her parents' home in Tennessee, where she told officers the first story of the slaying.

$139,000 In Federal Grants Sought

The State Higher Education Facilities Commission said Tuesday it has recommended the allocation of $139,461 in federal grants to 11 Nebraska universities and colleges to purchase equipment for undergraduate instruction.

Creighton University of Omaha would receive the largest grant, $34,479, followed by Chadron State College's $24,345 and Omaha University's $21,244.

The 11 institutions asked for a total of $142,329 in federal funds, exceeding by $4,868 the amount of funds available to the state for the current fiscal year under the 1965 Higher Education Act.

The federal grants must be approved by federal officials and matched dollar-for-dollar with institutional money.

The commission recommended the following grants, by priority of college based on needs:

$21,244 for Omaha University, $5,000 for Wayne State College, $24,345 for Chadron State College, $10,141 for Duschesne College of the Sacred Heart in Omaha, $4,954 for Peru State College, $8,237 for Nebraska Wesleyan University, $817 for Dana College in Blair, $34,479 for Creighton University, $3,672 for Hastings College, $7,515 for Hiram Scott College in Scottsbluff and $1,334 for York College.

Only York College, which had requested $4,198, was not recommended for a full grant.

Under the grant program for purchase of closed circuit television equipment, the commission recommended that Chadron receive $6,763, Omaha University, $3,038 and Creighton, $3,725.

NEWS of suburban areas

Picnics, more affectionately known as the mosquito and ant-watchers club meetings, are officially here, at least so say Cotner Terrace residents who are planning such endurance tests — oops, sorry, we mean outings—during the weekends. All joking aside, the populace is excited and anxious for the Memorial Day holiday to begin.

COTNER TERRACE

Who says that the masculine half of suburbia never is in the limelight. This Saturday James Schlegelmilch will be entertaining his fellow faculty members at Irving Junior High School at an all-day stag party. He has invited his guests to York and the home of Mrs. Schlegelmilch's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Watt, for a full day of golfing, swimming, and later in the evening a barbeque dinner prepared by Mr. Schlegelmilch himself.

There are picnics and more picnics planned for the weekend, but all are not scheduled for the Lincoln area. Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Karr and Mr. and Mrs. Dwaine Karr, for instance will be traveling to Seward on Sunday to attend such an outing in honor of the Mr. Karrs's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Karr, who are visiting from Dillion, Mont. and who are the house guests of Mr. Karr's mother, Mrs. Mae Karr in Seward.

Visiting plans for the weekend are also being made at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Hudzicki who, with their daughter. Mary, will motor to Norfolk on Sunday and return Monday. They will be the house guests of Mrs. Hudzicki's father, William Faulstick.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Beranek will go to Milligan to observe Memorial Day weekend, but an additional event will occupy the calendar on Saturday when Mr. Beranek attends the 30th reunion of his high school class. Milligan High School will honor all graduates of the years ending in six, and a special celebration is planned for the class members of 1936.

During the three-day stay Mr. and Mrs. Beranek will be the guests of Mr. Beranek's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Beranek, and Mrs. Beranek's brothers and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kassik, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Kassik and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kassik.

To change the subject—we hear that Mrs. Kenneth Myhre entertained at a farewell luncheon at her home last Wednesday afternoon. The guest of honor was departee, Mrs. Howard Nolan who, with her husband, Capt. Nolan and their family, Janie and JoDe, will be transferring to a new home in Grand Forks, N.D. The suburban residents will be leaving the city on Friday.

Guests at the luncheon included Mrs. George Finigan, Mrs. George Hudzicki, Mrs. Atwood Watson, and Mrs. Wilson Talbot.

But Wednesday didn't end the farewell courtesies for the Nolan family. On Saturday afternoon the two Nolan daughters, Janie and JoDe, were entertained and bid good-bye at a luncheon hostessed by two of their young friends, Miss Maureen Myhre and Miss Donna Talbot, at the Talbot home. The gathering included 12 of Janie and JoDe's feminine friends.

Out of state visitors will make the Eldon Wilhelm home a busy terminal this weekend. Mr. Wilhelm's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Neal Wilhelm and their children, Donald, Earl and Sherry, will motor from their home in Chicago, Ill. for the holiday weekend.

Attendants Announced

A bride-elect of late spring, Miss Ann Louise Soderquist, is announcing the members of her bridal party for her marriage to David Job, which will be solemnized on Sunday, May 29, at the Northside Seventh-Day Adventist Church.

Miss Joan Soderquist of Marlboro, Mass., will attend her sister as maid of honor, and the bridesmaids will be Miss Linda Haral of Lovilia, Iowa; Miss Charlotte Allen, Woodbury, Conn.; and her fiance's sister, Miss Gayle Job of Grand Forks, N.D.

The flower girl will be Miss Sara Job, niece of the bridegroom-elect, and carrying the Bible will be Mark McPherson of Jamestown, N.D.

Gary Job will serve his brother as best man, and the ushers will be Dwight Mayberry, Louisville, Ky.; Daniel Simpson and Dean Dittberner.

Both Miss Soderquist and her fiance are students at Union College.

Visiting plans for the weekend are also being made at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Hudzicki who, with their daughter, Mary, will motor to Norfolk on Sunday and return Monday. They will be the house guests of Mrs. Hudzicki's father, William Faulstick.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Beranek will go to Milligan to observe Memorial Day weekend, but an additional event will occupy the calendar on Saturday when Mr. Beranek attends the 30th reunion of his high school class. Milligan High School will honor all graduates of the years ending in six, and a special celebration is planned for the class members of 1936

During the three-day stay Mr and Mrs. Beranek will be the guests of Mr. Beranek's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Beranek, and Mrs. Beranek's brothers and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kassik, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Kassik and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kassik

To change the subject—we hear that Mrs Kenneth Myhre entertained at a farewell luncheon at her home last Wednesday afternoon. The guest of honor was departee, Mrs. Howard Nolan who, with her husband, Capt. Nolan and their family, Janie and JoDe, will be transferring to a new home in Grand Forks, N.D. The suburban residents will be leaving the city on Friday.

Guests at the luncheon included Mrs. George Finigan, Mrs. George Hudzicki, Mrs. Atwood Watson, and Mrs. Wilson Talbot.

But Wednesday didn't end the farewell courtesies for the Nolan family. On Saturday afternoon the two Nolan daughters, Janie and JoDe, were entertained and bid good-bye at a luncheon hostessed by two of their young friends, Miss Maureen Myhre and Miss Donna Talbot, at the Talbot home. The gathering included 12 of Janie and JoDe's feminine friends.

Out of state visitors will make the Eldon Wilhelm home a busy terminal this weekend. Mr. Wilhelm's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Neal Wilhelm and their children, Donald, Earl and Sherry, will motor from their home in Chicago, Ill. for the holiday weekend.

DEAR ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Thirteen months ago we took Dickie, my husband's brother's 2-year-old child, because his mother had been committed to a mental hospital. Dickie's father never called, wrote, or visited the boy in all that time. He never even offered a dollar toward the boy's keep. He moved in with his parents and seems to have cut himself off from the rest of the family.

His wife was recently released, and she's back living with her people. I am expecting my fifth child, Abby, and I don't think this is fair. I was glad to help out temporarily, but it wasn't my intention to raise this child. It looks like nobody wants him, so we're stuck. My husband thinks we should keep him. I think we were used. What is your advice?

USED

DEAR USED: Nowhere in your letter is there a word of affection or concern for Dickie. Since he IS your husband's nephew, one might assume he'd be better off with "family" than strangers. But if you feel "stuck" and "used," see a lawyer. Perhaps a foster home can be arranged. A child needs more than a roof over his head. He needs "love."

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: Recently at a dance my date suggested a couple of times that we go "outside." (This means go sit in his car and neck.) This got me kind of mad because I have no special feeling for him in that way, and I am sure he doesn't really like me in that way, either.

I got the idea that he thought this was the only way he could get his money's worth out of the date. What could I have added to my NO to explain my feelings about the subject!

NO OUTSIDER

DEAR NO: It wasn't necessary to add anything to your NO. If a girl refuses to neck with a boy, she doesn't have to justify her decision with a speech.

Bridal Parties, Plans

Miss Mary Elizabeth Pierce this morning is announcing the members of the bridal party for her wedding on Sunday, June 5, when she will become the bride of Robert Warren Tate, II.

The bride-elect, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin G. Pierce, has named her sister, Miss Susan Pierce of Denver, as her honor attendant, and the bridesmaids will be Miss Lynne Irish, St. Louis, Mo.; Miss Barbara Walters, Lincoln; and Miss Sharon Tate, Council Bluffs, Iowa, cousin of her fiance. Mrs. John W. Hallgren will be the bridesmatron.

Lighting the candles for the 3 o'clock service, which will be solemnized at First-Plymouth Church, will be Mrs. Robert O. Clifford and Miss Becky Haas.

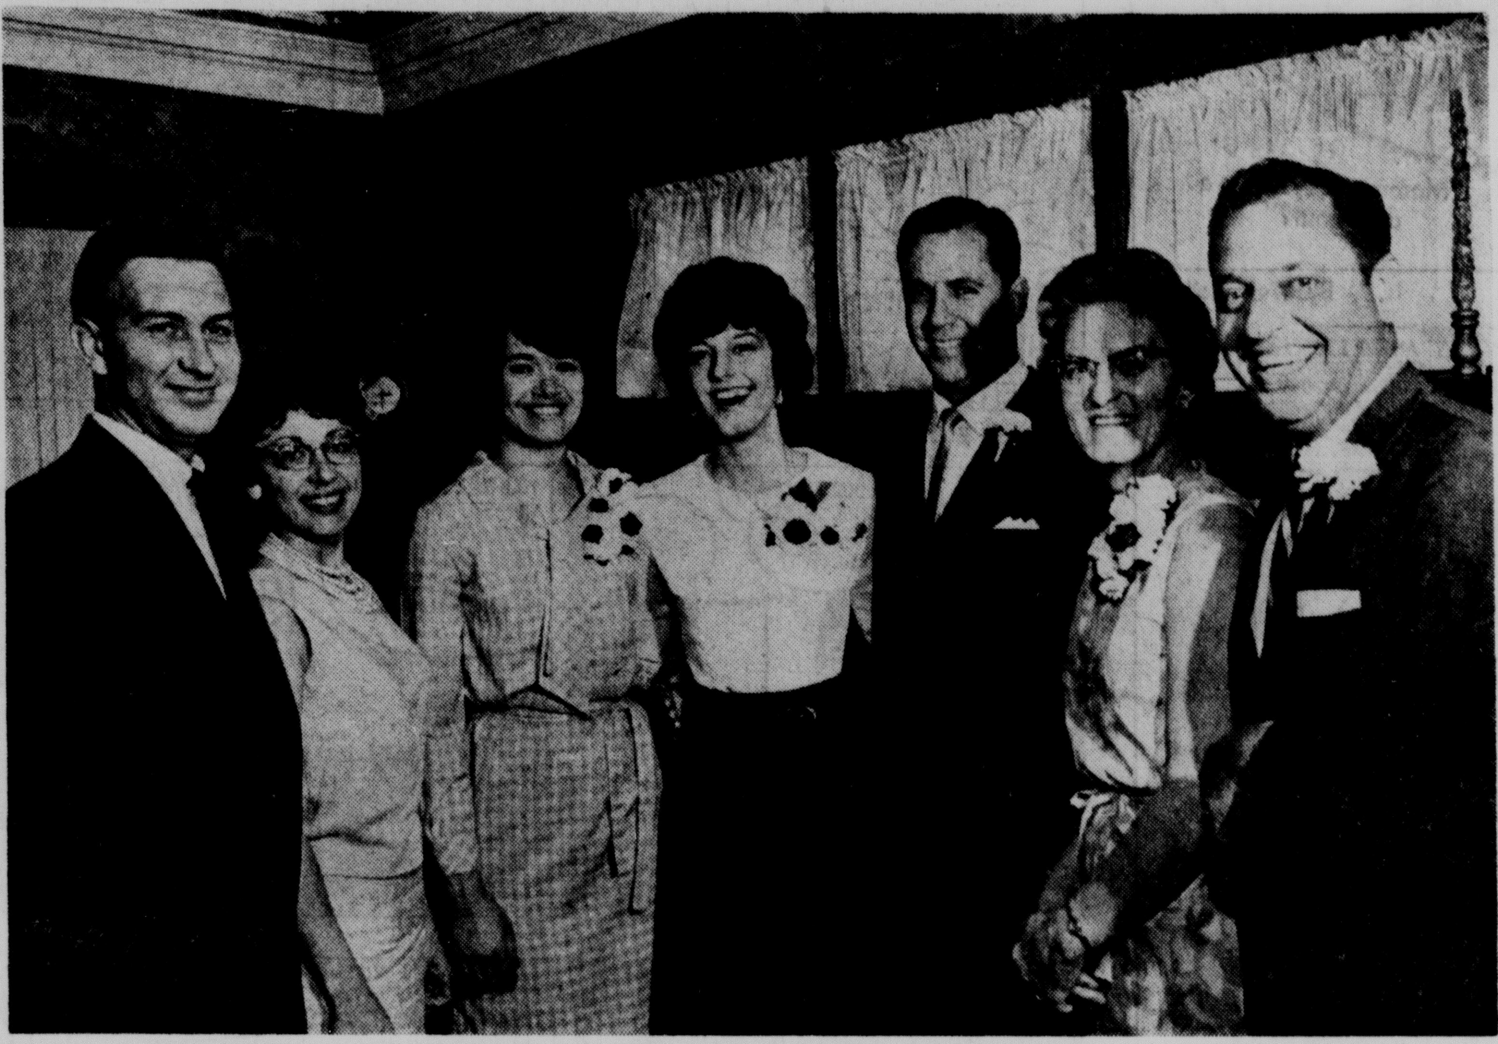
Gayle Tate of Tallahassee, Fla., will serve his brother as best man, and seating the guests will be William A. Haug of Minneapolis; the bride's cousin, Richard P. Russell, Terry Tice and John W. Hallgren.

Miss Pierce will be honored at a personal shower on Saturday when Mrs. Richard D. Wilson will be hostess at brunch at the Lincoln Country Club.

Saturday evening, former high school classmates of the bride-elect will honor her at a picnic supper and miscellaneous shower at Pioneers Park.

Miss Pierce and her fiance will share honors Saturday evening, June 4, when Mr. Tate's parents, Lt. Col. and Mrs. R. W. Tate of San Antonio, Tex., will be host and hostess at dinner at the Hotel Lincoln.

Recent courtesies for the soon-to-be bride include the party given by Miss Edith Pembrook and Mrs. Zelma Hodder at the home of Mrs. Hodder.



VISITORS

honored at postnuptial party

When Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Kaufman entertained at a reception at their home Sunday afternoon, their honored guests were Mr and Mrs. Stuart Jon Finck of Los Angeles. In fact, the reception was a postnuptial courtesy for Mr. and Mrs. Finck, whose marriage was solemnized last Dec. 25, in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Finck will be remembered as the former George Anne Kaufman, coed at the University of Nebraska before going to Los Angeles where her career involves her in the personnel department of the Los Angeles Times. Mr. Finck, who is the son of Mrs. Richard Flores of Los Angeles, is a graduate of the University of California at Los Angeles, and is associated with the Los Angeles city government.

The bidding:

Opening lead—nine of diamonds.

Bridge is an easy game — provided you keep on making the right bid and the right play at the right time. Mostly, the right bids and plays can be figured out; the hard part is to play flawlessly, bid after bid, play after play, and hand after hand.

Take this deal played by Emma Jean Hawes in the national Masters Pair championship the year (1958) she won the event with Dr. John W. Fisher as her partner.

Mrs. Hawes was declarer at four hearts. She didn't do anything sensational—all she did was do the right thing each time it was her turn.

But obviously what Mrs. Hawes did must have been very good because the other North-Souths who played the deal either didn't reach four hearts, or else failed to make it when they did.

West led a diamond. Mrs. Hawes made her first good play when she won the trick in her hand, not the dummy. She had already planned her entire course of action, and this included winning the diamond with the queen.

Mrs. Hawes next cashed three top hearts. Then she led her singleton spade and finessed the nine. Why the nine? We'll come to that in a moment.

East took the nine with the queen and played the A-K-Q of clubs. Mrs. Hawes ruffed, crossed to the king of diamonds, and led the king of spades through the ace. East covered, establishing the jack, and Mrs. Hawes was then able to discard a diamond on the spade jack.

The bidding accounted for the triple finesse in spades. East's overcall indicated 16 to 18 points and he therefore had to have the A-Q of spades for his bid. The jack or the king play both being hopeless, the finesse of the nine offered Mrs. Hawes a chance if West had the ten.

The reasoning was certainly not complicated. All it needed was a cool head at the helm.

Officers Installed

New officers of Beta Conclave, Kappa Kappa Iota teachers honorary, were installed Friday evening at a picnic supper held at the home of Mrs. Fern Westfall in Malcolm.

Heading the group will be Mrs. Esther Yung, president; Mrs. Gail Beal, vice president; Mrs. Grace Murray, secretary; and Mrs. Merna Fahrlander, treasurer.

Representing the group at the national convention, to be held June 19 to 22, at Birmingham, Ala., will be Mrs. Jean Sack and Mrs. Fahrlander, delegates, and Mrs. Yung and Mrs. Westfall, alternates. Also attending will be Mrs. Helen Shaw who serves as national first vice president.

Complexion Steaming

To cleanse and freshen the complexion surface, ease away crow's-feet and unwanted expression lines, and promote a silky-smooth appearance, try complexion steaming. With a towel over your head, steam your face over a basin of hot water. Beforehand, anoint the complexion with oil of Olay so that the skin will be softened as the hot vapor clears and relaxes the pores. After steaming, tone with lemon Jelvyn freshener and smooth the complexion with a further film of Olay to promote a bloom of milky loveliness.

Memorial Day Activity

If you're going to be doing nothing more than sitting around the house Memorial Day and you'd like to come up with an excuse for not mowing the lawn, Gene Somer at Curtis has just the thing lined up for you.

Somer, a music instructor at Curtis High School, is staging a Nebraska marathon run, designed after the national marathon that is run each year in Boston.

Can you think of a better way to spend Memorial Day than by running 26 miles, 385 yards. All you need to enter the race is a strong heart, stronger legs, one dollar and a doctor's written statement that you are in condition to go the distance.

How About Non-Survivors?

Somer, who will be running in the race himself, has the backing of the Curtis Chamber of Commerce, who are putting up trophies for the first six finishers and survivor awards to all runners who finish in less than four hours and 30 minutes.

Somer doesn't say what the survivor awards are, but would you believe an oxygen tank? No mention is made of the non-survivors, but it may be appropriate that the course takes the runners past the "beautiful" Curtis cemetery at the 24-mile mark.

However, it's the first 24 miles that will be the toughest. If you make it past the cemetery, it's downhill the rest of the way to the Curtis main street.

A Scenic Route

In his circular to boost interest in the race, Somer points out that no part of the course is repeated and that the runners will trot over seven miles of asphalt and 19 miles of dirt and gravel.

"Breathtaking hills and out of this world scenery," Somer mentions in the advance sheet. Seems if you are running 26 miles any hill would be breathtaking even if there were nothing on it but sagebrush.

Somer also notes a 30-piece band will play rousing marches 20 minutes before the runners take off. Nothing like a rousing march tune to get you fired up for running 26 miles, 385 yards.

Help With Feeding

Somer also mentions that the Aggie Inn cafe has offered to feed all runners after the race.

If the waitresses at the Aggie Inn think they had trouble with those high school kids who stopped in there after a basketball game, wait until they have to hand feed a fellow who has just run 26 miles.

Nurses may be more valuable at the Aggie Inn than waitresses. We think the runners should be given a choice of whether they want their meal at the Aggie Inn before or after the race.

16 To 61

Somer already has entries from 23 runners and he expects a field of more than 30 to start the race at 7 a.m. Monday morning.

The advance entry list ranges in age from 16-year-old Brice Reynolds of North Platte to 61-year-old Tom Cruise of Valentine.

As a final word of warning, Somer says, "Train hard. There are seven hills." Ooomph!

No Watchdog Will Guard Agreement

Washington (AP) — There will be no watchdog to guard any peace that may be hammered out between the Amateur Athletic Union and the National Collegiate Athletic Association, a member of the vice president's special panel said Tuesday.

"We don't think we'll need a police force—that is not included in our resolution," said Gen. David M. Shoup, retired commandant of the U.S. Marine Corps.

"These men are all Americans. We must bank on their patriotism and good faith."

The crusty, cigar-smoking general is one of a five-man panel appointed by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey to arbitrate the long dispute between the AAU and NCAA.

Other members are Theodore W. Kheel of New York, well known labor mediator; Archibald Cox, Harvard Law School professor and former solicitor general; Ralph Metcalfe, Chicago alderman and onetime olympic athlete, and Thomas Vail, editor and publisher of the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The board presented a paper, representing a draft of an agreement, to the two warning factions Tuesday with indications that the plan drew resistance, particularly from the college group.

After offering the proposal, the board let the AAU and NCAA hold separate caucuses, then return for a private discussion with the panel. The 10-man college force went well past its allotted time in discussing the issues.

It is believed the master plan of the panel follows largely the framework of the moratorium agreement made when the arbitration group was set up in January.

This moratorium stipulates that:

1—No athletes will be restrained by the NCAA or the U.S. Track and Field Federation from participating in any AAU meets or events. 2—The AAU will not withhold its sanction from meets on the grounds they are sanctioned only by the NCAA or the USTFF.

Kheel, who said Monday that peace is near in the controversy, was asked about the necessity of a watchdog.

"We are the watchdog now," he said. Then he acknowledged that the panel would be disbanded once its present job is finished.

"If the two organizations merge, there would be no need for a watchdog," he added.

"Is a merger possible?" somebody asked.

"Possible, I wouldn't say probable," he said.

Agreements have been worked out before between the warring groups — The MacArthur Plan in 1963 and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's coalition later — but both later were broken.

"I don't think these two bodies ever have had a real agreement," Kheel said.

"That's what we are aiming for. When they have it, there shouldn't be a need for a policeman."

Southeast Sidelined, 6-2 In State Baseball Meet

. . . BENSON TRIPS BELLEVUE, 7-2

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Omaha — Omaha Benson and Omaha Tech clash at 8 o'clock at Rosenblatt Stadium here tonight for the Nebraska Class A High School Baseball championship.

Benson stopped Bellevue, 7-2, and Tech sidelined Lincoln Southeast, 6-2, as the tourney opened Monday night.

Southeast took an early 1-0 lead over Tech but couldn't hold the advantage as the Trojans scored twice in the bottom of the first inning and never trailed thereafter.

Some shaky Southeast fielding and a big fifth inning in which the winners put together three hits helped send the Knights to the sidelines.

Southeast leadoff man Dick Hawley opened the game with a bunt single, moved to second on a sacrifice and to third on an infield out before scoring on sharp single by Leland Sasse.

Tech took advantage of errors by Hawley and shortstop Tom Tidball to get their two runs in the first. The Trojans scored again in the fourth when Kirkland Wise singled, Roger Ulmar dropped a double down the right field line and John Roper followed with a sacrifice fly.

Tech chased Southeast starter Steve Mitchell in the fifth inning, when Fergusen Hill and Ken Smith singled and Phil Wise stroked a long triple that brought John Roberts in from the bull pen to retire the Trojans on a double play.

It looked like Southeast would get back into contention in the sixth inning, but Ulmar came in to put down the starting rally.

Hawley walked, Dick Henderson singled and Tom Kos doubled Hawley home as the Knights knocked starter Ron Bartee out of the box.

Ulmar then came in and walked Sasse but settled down to strike out Tidball and Dave McEwen and got Jim Deitmeyer to ground out.

Benson ace southpaw Doug Sandstedt, bothered only by his control, pitched the heavily-favored Bunnies past Bellevue on a three-hitter.

Bellevue got both of its runs on a two-run triple by catcher Steve Ellerbusch in the bottom of the sixth inning.

But it was too little and too late to swing the decision to the Chieftains because Benson had given Sandstedt a big four-run cushion in the first inning and had added three more runs before Bellevue could score.

Bellevue starter Sid Taylor lasted only midway through the first inning as control problems and a leaky defense contributed to the early uprising by the Bunnies.

Paul Becchio, Jim Douglas and Mike Von Dollen had two hits apiece to pace the ten-hit attack of the winners.

FLEMING LEADING JOCKEY

Omaha — Ak-Sar-Ben general manager Tom Brock was hoping Tuesday that over 100,000 customers would pass through his turnstiles by Memorial Day.

The Omaha thoroughbred racing plant will feature quite a list of specials in the coming week. Saturday's feature will be a six furlong dash for $10,000.

The big race Memorial Day is the King's Plate Handicap at $15,000-added and will be contested over one and 1/16th miles.

This affair has attracted 16 nominations including two entries of three horses each. M. H. Van Berg, the Columbus owner who won over $100,000 in purses here in 1965, has entered Cutacorner, Mike's Red and Miss Sun Tan.

Ed Richards trains three of the nominees for different owners. They are Dedicated A, Irish Bull and Shooting Bill. Others on the list include Aeroflint, Barbacoma, BF's Own, Brick Dust, Double Double, Durowl, Gay Revoke, Owens Lee, Ramant and Texas Tech.

William Fleming was the jockey leader going into the Tuesday card. He had a narrow 10-9 edge in wins over Jack Arterburn.

M. G. Stubbs of Wood River was in full command as the meet's top trainer. He had sent only 17 horses to the post, but fashioned a fantastic record of eight wins and four shows. His nearest two competitors had five wins each.

Attendance and betting totals were both up about the same over last year. The 13,187 fans topped the 1965 figure of 12,956 by 1.8%. The money bet was up 1.7% with figures of $710,621 for this year and $698,664 per day in 1965.

Wert's Single Brings 2-0 Victory For Detroit

. . . CLEVELAND RETALIATES IN NIGHTCAP

Detroit (AP) — Luis Tiant scattered four hits for his fourth shutout victory as Cleveland blanked Detroit, 2-0, Tuesday night and gained a doubleheader split with the Tigers.

Detroit came from behind to win the opener, 7-6, on Don Wert's tie-breaking single in the eighth.

Tiant, 4-2, outpitched Detroit southpaw Hank Aguirre in the second game. The Indians scored an unearned run in the fifth inning with the help of Aguirre's throwing error and wrapped it up in the eighth when Leon Wagner homered off reliever Fred Gladding.

Joe Azcue's single, Aguirre's poor throw on Tiant's sacrifice bunt and a single by Chuck Hinton snapped a scoreless tie in the fifth.

Wagner hit his second homer with one out in the eighth.

The Tigers' only threat came in the seventh when Bill Freehan singled with one out and Gates Brown walked. But Tiant retired Ray Oyler on an infield fly and struck out pinch-hitter Willie Horton.

Oklahoma completed its sweep to a 24th Big Eight all-sports championship in 38 years with a second place in baseball, while Nebraska moved past defending champ Kansas into second place by finishing third in baseball.

The final standings in the inverse rating system gave Oklahoma with 36 points in 11 sports, close to a third-place average. Nebraska had 39½, Kansas 44, Oklahoma State 47½, Kansas State 54½, Colorado 56, Iowa State 57½, and Missouri 61.

Colorado and Missouri were the only teams without a team crown for the year. Oklahoma State's baseball title put the Cowboys on top with three. Kansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma won two each, K-State and Iowa State one each.

Oklahoma State, however, finished in the second division in six of the 11 sports. The division was the key to Oklahoma's high finish. The Soomers were in the first division in eight sports, Nebraska and Kansas seven each.

OSU also won golf and wrestling, Nebraska won football and outdoor track, Kansas indoor track and basketball, Oklahoma swimming and tennis, K-State cross-country and Iowa State won gymnastics.

Oklahoma had a streak of 11 straight all-sports crowns when Kansas ended it by winning in 1957. Oklahoma won in 1958 and 1959, Kansas in 1960, Oklahoma State in 1961 and 1962, Oklahoma in 1963, and Kansas in 1964 and 1965.

Kansas has six all-sports titles, Nebraska three, Oklahoma State and Iowa State two each and Missouri one.

Memorial Day Activity

If you're going to be doing nothing more than sitting around the house Memorial Day and you'd like to come up with an excuse for not mowing the lawn, Gene Somer at Curtis has just the thing lined up for you.

Somer, a music instructor at Curtis High School, is staging a Nebraska marathon run, designed after the national marathon that is run each year in Boston.

Can you think of a better way to spend Memorial Day than by running 26 miles, 385 yards. All you need to enter the race is a strong heart, stronger legs, one dollar and a doctor's written statement that you are in condition to go the distance.

How About Non-Survivors?

Somer, who will be running in the race himself, has the backing of the Curtis Chamber of Commerce, who are putting up trophies for the first six finishers and survivor awards to all runners who finish in less than four hours and 30 minutes.

Somer doesn't say what the survivor awards are, but would you believe an oxygen tank? No mention is made of the non-survivors, but it may be appropriate that the course takes the runners past the "beautiful" Curtis cemetery at the 24-mile mark.

However, it's the first 24 miles that will be the toughest. If you make it past the cemetery, it's downhill the rest of the way to the Curtis main street.

A Scenic Route

In his circular to boost interest in the race, Somer points out that no part of the course is repeated and that the runners will trot over seven miles of asphalt and 19 miles of dirt and gravel.

"Breathtaking hills and out of this world scenery," Somer mentions in the advance sheet. Seems if you are running 26 miles any hill would be breathtaking even if there were nothing on it but sagebrush.

Somer also notes a 30-piece band will play rousing marches 20 minutes before the runners take off. Nothing like a rousing march tune to get you fired up for running 26 miles, 385 yards.

Help With Feeding

Somer also mentions that the Aggie Inn cafe has offered to feed all runners after the race.

If the waitresses at the Aggie Inn think they had trouble with those high school kids who stopped in there after a basketball game, wait until they have to hand feed a fellow who has just run 26 miles.

Nurses may be more valuable at the Aggie Inn than waitresses. We think the runners should be given a choice of whether they want their meal at the Aggie Inn before or after the race.

16 To 61

Somer already has entries from 23 runners and he expects a field of more than 30 to start the race at 7 a.m. Monday morning.

The advance entry list ranges in age from 16-year-old Brice Reynolds of North Platte to 61-year-old Tom Cruise of Valentine.

As a final word of warning, Somer says, "Train hard. There are seven hills." Ooomph!

No Watchdog Will Guard Agreement

Washington (AP) — There will be no watchdog to guard any peace that may be hammered out between the Amateur Athletic Union and the National Collegiate Athletic Association, a member of the vice president's special panel said Tuesday.

"We don't think we'll need a police force—that is not included in our resolution," said Gen. David M. Shoup, retired commandant of the U.S. Marine Corps.

"These men are all Americans. We must bank on their patriotism and good faith."

The crusty, cigar-smoking general is one of a five-man panel appointed by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey to arbitrate the long dispute between the AAU and NCAA.

Other members are Theodore W. Kheel of New York, well known labor mediator; Archibald Cox, Harvard Law School professor and former solicitor general; Ralph Metcalfe, Chicago alderman and onetime olympic athlete, and Thomas Vail, editor and publisher of the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The board presented a paper, representing a draft of an agreement, to the two warring factions Tuesday with indications that the plan drew resistance, particularly from the college group.

After offering the proposal, the board let the AAU and NCAA hold separate caucuses, then return for a private discussion with the panel. The 10-man college force went well past its allotted time in discussing the issues.

It is believed the master plan of the panel follows largely the framework of the moratorium agreement made when the arbitration group was set up in January.

This moratorium stipulates that:

1—No athletes will be restrained by the NCAA or the U.S. Track and Field Federation from participating in any AAU meets or events. 2—The AAU will not withhold its sanction from meets on the grounds they are sanctioned only by the NCAA or the USTFF.

Kheel, who said Monday that peace is near in the controversy, was asked about the necessity of a watchdog.

"We are the watchdog now," he said. Then he acknowledged that the panel would be disbanded once its present job is finished.

"If the two organizations merge, there would be no need for a watchdog," he added.

"Is a merger possible?" somebody asked.

"Possible. I wouldn't say probable," he said.

Agreements have been worked out before between the warring groups — The MacArthur Plan in 1963 and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's coalition later — but both later were broken.

"I don't think these two bodies ever have had a real agreement," Kheel said.

"That's what we are aiming for. When they have it, there shouldn't be a need for a policeman."

TECH ELIMINATES KNIGHTS

Southeast Sidelined, 6-2 In State Baseball Meet

. . . BENSON TRIPS BELLEVUE, 7-2

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Omaha — Omaha Benson and Omaha Tech clash at 8 o'clock at Rosenblatt Stadium here tonight for the Nebraska Class A High School Baseball championship.

Benson stopped Bellevue, 7-2, and Tech sidelined Lincoln Southeast, 6-2, as the tourney opened Monday night.

Southeast took an early 1-0 lead over Tech but couldn't hold the advantage as the Trojans scored twice in the bottom of the first inning and never trailed thereafter.

Some shaky Southeast fielding and a big fifth inning in which the winners put together three hits helped send the Knights to the sidelines.

Southeast leadoff man Dick Hawley opened the game with a bunt single, moved to second on a sacrifice and to third on an infield out before scoring on sharp single by Leland Sasse.

Tech took advantage of errors by Hawley and shortstop Tom Tidball to get their two runs in the first. The Trojans scored again in the fourth when Kirkland Wise singled, Roger Ulmar dropped a double down the right field line and John Roper followed with a sacrifice fly.

Tech chased Southeast starter Steve Mitchell in the fifth inning, when Fergusen Hill and Ken Smith singled and Phil Wise stroked a long triple that brought John Roberts in from the bull pen to retire the Trojans on a double play.

It looked like Southeast would get back into contention in the sixth inning, but Ulmar came in to put down the starting rally.

Hawley walked, Dick Henderson singled and Tom Kos doubled Hawley home as the Knights knocked starter Ron Bartee out of the box.

Ulmar then came in and walked Sasse but settled down to strike out Tidball and Dave McEwen and got Jim Deitmeyer to ground out.

Benson ace southpaw Doug Sandstedt, bothered only by his control, pitched the heavily-favored Bunnies past Bellevue on a three-hitter. Bellevue got both of its runs on a two-run triple by catcher Steve Ellerbusch in the bottom of the sixth inning.

But it was too little and too late to swing the decision to the Chieftains because Benson had given Sandstedt a big four-run cushion in the first inning and had added three more runs before Bellevue could score.

Bellevue starter Sid Taylor lasted only midway through the first inning as control problems and a leaky defense contributed to the early uprising by the Bunnies.

Paul Becchio, Jim Douglas and Mike Von Dollen had two hits apiece to pace the ten-hit attack of the winners.

FLEMING LEADING JOCKEY

Omaha — Ak-Sar-Ben general manager Tom Brock was hoping Tuesday that over 100,000 customers would pass through his turnstiles by Memorial Day.

The Omaha thoroughbred racing plant will feature quite a list of specials in the coming week. Saturday's feature will be a six furlong dash for $10,000.

The big race Memorial Day is the King's Plate Handicap at $15,000-added and will be contested over one and 1/16th miles.

This affair has attracted 16 nominations including two entries of three horses each. M. H. Van Berg, the Columbus owner who won over $100,000 in purses here in 1965, has entered Cutacorner, Mike's Red and Miss Sun Tan.

Ed Richards trains three of the nominees for different owners. They are Dedicated A, Irish Bull and Shooting Bill. Others on the list include Aeroflint, Barbacoma, BF's Own, Brick Dust, Double Double, Durowl, Gay Revoke, Owens Lee, Ramant and Texas Tech.

William Fleming was the jockey leader going into the Tuesday card. He had a narrow 10-9 edge in wins over Jack Arterburn.

M. G. Stubbs of Wood River was in full command as the meet's top trainer. He had sent only 17 horses to the post, but fashioned a fantastic record of eight wins and four shows. His nearest two competitors had five wins each.

Attendance and betting totals were both up about the same over last year. The 13,187 fans topped the 1965 figure of 12,956 by 1.8%. The money bet was up 1.7% with figures of $710,621 for this year and $698,664 per day in 1965.

BELMONT BOUND

Wert's Single Brings 2-0 Victory For Detroit

. . . CLEVELAND RETALIATES IN NIGHTCAP

Detroit (AP) — Luis Tiant scattered four hits for his fourth shutout victory as Cleveland blanked Detroit, 2-0, Tuesday night and gained a doubleheader split with the Tigers.

Detroit came from behind to win the opener, 7-6, on Don Wert's tie-breaking single in the eighth.

Tiant, 4-2, outpitched Detroit southpaw Hank Aguirre in the second game. The Indians scored an unearned run in the fifth inning with the help of Aguirre's throwing error and wrapped it up in the eighth when Leon Wagner homered off reliever Fred Gladding.

Joe Azcue's single, Aguirre's poor throw on Tiant's sacrifice bunt and a single by Chuck Hinton snapped a scoreless tie in the fifth.

Wagner hit his second homer with one out in the eighth.

The Tigers' only threat came in the seventh when Bill Freehan singled with one out and Gates Brown walked. But Tiant retired Ray Oyler on an infield fly and struck out pinch-hitter Willie Horton.

Oklahoma completed its sweep to a 24th Big Eight all-sports championship in 38 years with a second place in baseball, while Nebraska moved past defending champ Kansas into second place by finishing third in baseball.

The final standings in the inverse rating system gave Oklahoma with 36 points in 11 sports, close to a third-place average. Nebraska had 39½, Kansas 44, Oklahoma State 47½, Kansas State 54½, Colorado 56, Iowa State 57½, and Missouri 61.

Colorado and Missouri were the only teams without a team crown for the year. Oklahoma State's baseball title put the Cowboys on top with three. Kansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma won two each, K-State and Iowa State one each.

Oklahoma State, however, finished in the second division in six of the 11 sports. The division was the key to Oklahoma's high finish. The Soomers were in the first division in eight sports, Nebraska and Kansas seven each.

OSU also won golf and wrestling, Nebraska won football and outdoor track, Kansas indoor track and basketball, Oklahoma swimming and tennis, K-State cross-country and Iowa State won gymnastics.

Oklahoma had a streak of 11 straight all-sports crowns when Kansas ended it by winning in 1957. Oklahoma won in 1958 and 1959, Kansas in 1960, Oklahoma State in 1961 and 1962, Oklahoma in 1963, and Kansas in 1964 and 1965.

Kansas has six all-sports titles, Nebraska three, Oklahoma State and Iowa State two each and Missouri one.

Nasser Invites Champ To Country For Visit

. . . GERMAN MAY GET TITLE SHOT

London (AP)—Cassius Clay flew to Egypt Tuesday at the invitation of President Nasser and said he might be back within two months for another money-making defense of his world heavyweight title in Britain.

The opponent he mentioned was Karl Mildenberger of West Germany, the European champion.

As Clay left for a few days rest in the Egyptian sunshine, it was clear that boxing and closed-circuit television officials were eager to repeat the glittering financial success of his title defense against Henry Cooper in London Saturday.

That fight was watched by 42,000 fans and grossed $1.2 million, including closed circuit television rights.

Clay's share reportedly was around $280,000.

Promoter Harry Levene, who staged Saturday's fight, confirmed that a Clay-Mildenberger fight in Britain is under discussion.

He said such a fight could be beamed direct to the United States and the whole of Europe by television.

Clay has the prospect of massing monumental earnings in Britain—with no restrictions on taking the money back to America.

A spokesman at the British treasury said: "Clay is in the same category as any other nonresident entertainer. There is no restriction on importing goods or services from America.

"We sent The Beatles to the United States and they earn dollars. American entertainers come here and make money in their turn."

Clay was all set to return to the United States Tuesday. But he received an invitation from the Egyptian embassy a few hours before he was due to fly to New York.

"I am going to see the Egyptian boxing authorities and to have a little rest," Clay said.

"I don't have to go before the American draft board for a couple weeks, and I'm tired. That's why I am gratefully accepting this invitation."

Neither Clay nor anyone else would nail down any definite plan for a fight against Mildenberger.

Levene said he could give neither a date nor a site.

Sam Burns, a director of a firm which handled the closed-circuit television of the Clay-Cooper fight in British theaters, said:

"Clay is leaving London very happy with all the arrangements and negotiations that have been conducted on his behalf in the last few weeks. You can take it that anything the champion does in Europe in the future, my firm will be associated with it."

Clay talked to newsmen at his hotel and at the airport about the possibility of fighting Mildenberger. But he added that his next opponent might be the winner of the coming fight between Doug Jones and Ernie Terrell, the WBA champ, June 28 at Houston.

En route to Cairo, Clay's plane stopped at Frankfurt where he met Mildenberger, the 28-year-old European champion.

When they squared off in sparring stance at the airport, Clay said, "Why, he's a southpaw. The only worry I have is that."

Newsmen asked Clay about the fight and he motioned toward the German boxer and said, "would he have the nerve to fight me?"

"Certainly," said Mildenberger when he caught the meaning of Clay's question.

"I thought I was the prettiest fighter in the world," said Cassius. "But I see you're pretty too. That's how I can tell he's a good fighter: no marks."

TWINS FALL TO BOSTON

Boston (AP)—The Boston Red Sox unloaded a 16-hit attack that included homers by Carl Yastrzemski, Tony Conigliaro and Jim Gosger and rolled to their sixth straight victory Tuesday night, crushing the Minnesota Twins 11-2.

Right-hander Jose Santiago—with relief from Dick Radatz in the ninth inning—breezed to his fourth victory in five decisions as the Red Sox equaled their longest winning streak since June, 1963.

The Twins combined three of their six hits for two runs in the first, Zoilo Versalles singling, Tony Oliva doubling and Jimmie Hall tripling.

When the Minnesota bombers, who won 17 of 18 games against Boston en route to the American League pennant last year, were bombed as Santiago settled down.

Camilo Pascual was belted out in the second inning and was tagged for seven runs.

Adcock's Hit Gives Angels 4-2 Victory

New York (AP)—Joe Adcock's bases-loaded double capped a four-run rally in the fifth inning that carried California to a 4-2 victory over New York Tuesday night, snapping the Yankees' winning streak at five.

The Angels capitalized on two of their six hits and reliever Dooley Womack's error for the deciding runs in the fifth.

Womack, who had replaced Whitey Ford in the second inning, walked Paul Schaal leading off the fifth. Bob Rodgers grounded to first baseman Joe Pepitone but Womack, covering on the play, missed the bag for an error. Pinch hitter Willie Smith then doubled, scoring Schaal.

After a walk to Ed Kirkpatrick loaded the bases, Rodgers scored on Jim Fregosi's roller to third, beating Tom Tresh's throw to the plate.

Robinson Leads Oriole Victory

Chicago (AP)—Brooks Robinson smacked a homer and drove across three runs, and Boog Powell singled in the clincher Tuesday night as the Baltimore Orioles beat Chicago's slumping White Sox 6-4.

Robinson hit his seventh homer of the season in the third inning, coming with one on and capping a four-run outburst.

Powell snapped a 4-4 tie in the sixth with a single after Curt Blefary had doubled, and Robinson singled in an insurance run in the seventh.

Tommy Agee delivered three runs for the White Sox, who now have lost eight of their last nine games. He hit a sacrifice fly in the third and belted a two-run homer in the fifth that tied the score at 4-4.

Jim Pamer was the winning pitcher with strong relief help from Dick Hall, who came on in the sixth. Jack Lamabe took the loss.

Nasser Invites Champ To Country For Visit

. . . GERMAN MAY GET TITLE SHOT

London (AP)—Cassius Clay flew to Egypt Tuesday at the invitation of President Nasser and said he might be back within two months for another money-making defense of his world heavyweight title in Britain.

The opponent he mentioned was Karl Mildenberger of West Germany, the European champion.

As Clay left for a few days rest in the Egyptian sunshine, it was clear that boxing and closed-circuit television officials were eager to repeat the glittering financial success of his title defense against Henry Cooper in London Saturday.

That fight was watched by 42,000 fans and grossed $1.2 million, including closed circuit television rights.

Clay's share reportedly was around $280,000.

Promoter Harry Levene, who staged Saturday's fight, confirmed that a Clay-Mildenberger fight in Britain is under discussion.

He said such a fight could be beamed direct to the United States and the whole of Europe by television.

Clay has the prospect of massing monumental earnings in Britain—with no restrictions on taking the money back to America.

A spokesman at the British treasury said: "Clay is in the same category as any other nonresident entertainer. There is no restriction on importing goods or services from America.

"We sent The Beatles to the United States and they earn dollars. American entertainers come here and make money in their turn."

Clay was all set to return to the United States Tuesday. But he received an invitation from the Egyptian embassy a few hours before he was due to fly to New York.

"I am going to see the Egyptian boxing authorities and to have a little rest," Clay said.

"I don't have to go before the American draft board for a couple weeks, and I'm tired. That's why I am gratefully accepting this invitation."

Neither Clay nor anyone else would nail down any definite plan for a fight against Mildenberger.

Levene said he could give neither a date nor a site.

Sam Burns, a director of a firm which handled the closed-circuit television of the Clay-Cooper fight in British theaters, said:

"Clay is leaving London very happy with all the arrangements and negotiations that have been conducted on his behalf in the last few weeks. You can take it that anything the champion does in Europe in the future, my firm will be associated with it."

Clay talked to newsmen at his hotel and at the airport about the possibility of fighting Mildenberger. But he added that his next opponent might be the winner of the coming fight between Doug Jones and Ernie Terrell, the WBA champ, June 28 at Houston.

En route to Cairo, Clay's plane stopped at Frankfurt where he met Mildenberger, the 28-year-old European champion.

When they squared off in sparring stance at the airport, Clay said, "Why, he's a southpaw. The only worry I have is that."

Newsmen asked Clay about the fight and he motioned toward the German boxer and said, "would he have the nerve to fight me?"

"Certainly," said Mildenberger when he caught the meaning of Clay's question.

"I thought I was the prettiest fighter in the world," said Cassius. "But I see you're pretty too. That's how I can tell he's a good fighter: no marks."

TWINS FALL TO BOSTON

Boston (AP)—The Boston Red Sox unloaded a 16-hit attack that included homers by Carl Yastrzemski, Tony Conigliaro and Jim Gosger and rolled to their sixth straight victory Tuesday night, crushing the Minnesota Twins 11-2.

Right-hander Jose Santiago—with relief from Dick Radatz in the ninth inning—breezed to his fourth victory in five decisions as the Red Sox equaled their longest winning streak since June, 1963.

The Twins combined three of their six hits for two runs in the first. Zoilo Versalles singling, Tony Oliva doubling and Jimmie Hall tripling.

When the Minnesota bombers, who won 17 of 18 games against Boston en route to the American League pennant last year, were bombed as Santiago settled down.

Camilo Pascual was belted out in the second inning and was tagged for seven runs.

Adcock's Hit Gives Angels 4-2 Victory

New York (AP)—Joe Adcock's bases-loaded double capped a four-run rally in the fifth inning that carried California to a 4-2 victory over New York Tuesday night, snapping the Yankees' winning streak at five.

The Angels capitalized on two of their six hits and reliever Dooley Womack's error for the deciding runs in the fifth.

Womack, who had replaced Whitey Ford in the second inning, walked Paul Schaal leading off the fifth. Bob Rodgers grounded to first baseman Joe Pepitone but Womack, covering on the play, missed the bag for an error. Pinch hitter Willie Smith then doubled, scoring Schaal.

After a walk to Ed Kirkpatrick loaded the bases, Rodgers scored on Jim Fregosi's roller to third, beating Tom Tresh's throw to the plate.

Robinson Leads Oriole Victory

Chicago (AP)—Brooks Robinson smacked a homer and drove across three runs, and Boog Powell singled in the clincher Tuesday night as the Baltimore Orioles beat Chicago's slumping White Sox 6-4.

Robinson hit his seventh homer of the season in the third inning, coming with one on and capping a four-run outburst.

Powell snapped a 4-4 tie in the sixth with a single after Curt Blefary had doubled, and Robinson singled in an insurance run in the seventh.

Tommy Agee delivered three runs for the White Sox, who now have lost eight of their last nine games. He hit a sacrifice fly in the third and belted a two-run homer in the fifth that tied the score at 4-4.

Jim Pamer was the winning pitcher with strong relief help from Dick Hall, who came on in the sixth. Jack Lamabe took the loss.

HOUSTON WHIPS NEW YORK, 5-3

Houston (AP) — Jim Gentile doubled across three runs in the first inning and scored on Rusty Staub's double, pacing the Houston Astros to a 5-3 victory over the New York Mets Tuesday night.

The Astros jumped in front 4-1 in the opening inning with the help of two consecutive misplays by New York catcher Jerry Grote and then held off the Mets behind the one-hit relief pitching of Claude Raymond, who went 5 1-3 innings.

USC Ranks 1st In Poll; Florida 2nd

Tucson, Ariz.—The Southern California Trojans maintained their No. 1 ranking in the latest college baseball poll, but four other clubs were breathing down the necks of the Men of Troy.

Florida State, Ohio State, St. Louis and Washington State followed closely, in that order, behind USC in the current poll conducted by the newspaper Collegiate Baseball.

Senate Approves $5,008,000,000 For Space

Washington (AP)—The Senate took only minutes Tuesday to give unanimous approval to a $5 billion-plus authorization for the nation's space program in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

It approved a total of $5,008,000,000 which was $21,135,850 more than voted by the House but $4 million less than President Johnson requested.

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., manager of the bill, said the program will continue the effort to land astronauts on the moon and return them safely by 1970.

The Senate committee called the space program "a very carefully planned and balanced program at the minimum funding level needed to maintain our astronauts and space program at the forefront of science and technology.

"Therefore the major programs recommended by the executive branch are left intact."

Fulbright Unit Cuts Aid Time

Washington (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee handed the administration a setback Tuesday as it voted 11 to 6 to cut the proposed foreign aid authorization from five years to one.

The administration had sought a five-year authorization for the foreign aid and military assistance program for which it is asking $3.4 billion for the next fiscal year.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., described the vote for the one-year authorization as "pretty convincing."

Fulbright himself voted for the one-year limit although up until recently he had supported a multi-year aid program.

Asked why the change of heart, Fulbright replied, "One reason is the use of aid as a justification for military intervention."

Should Greek be made the official language for tire-buying day?

We're agin it.

Simple English gets our vote.

Sure, B.F.Goodrich dealers can expound on cord angles, high-hysteresis rubber compounds and kerf depths.

Mostly though, they give you straight talk on finding the right tire for your kind of driving.

And they've got a pocket-size device to aid their eloquence: the BFG Tire Value Calculator.

You tell it how much you drive...where and when...how fast. Then it tells you which tough BFG tire will suit you best, cost you least. (Maybe as little as $10.95.)

We figure you're interested in what a tire will do for you. Not in how it does it.

Stock Market's Rise Continues

New York (AP)—The stock market Tuesday stretched its recovery drive through its third straight daily session. Trading was moderately active.

Volume was 7.22 million sares compared with 7.1 million Monday.

The Dow Jones industrial vaerage advanced 5.95 to 888.41. The closing figure was the day's lowest reading and considerably below the highest of 892.98 in late morning, at which point the average was up 10.52.

When the stocks were at their height for the day, one analyst commented that the rise was "too swift" and that it would be healthier if the market took its recovery in smaller daily doses.

At its peak, incidentally, the Dow industrials were bumping close to the 900 level which now looms as a technical resistance level to further advance.

At its best level, the market was one of the best examples this year of an all-around advance, with blue chips and glamor stocks in gear. The auto stocks were strong, along with oils, electrical equipments, nonferrous metals and other wheelhorses. The high-flying airlines, aerospace issues, color televisions, office equipments and the like also were well ahead.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 2.4 to 324.2 with industrials up 3.9, rails up 1.8 and utilities up .1.

Of 1,403 issues traded, 889 rose and 318 fell. Highs for the year totaled 16 and lows 49. New York State Electric & Gas was the most active stock unchanged at 39 on 164,100 shares, of which 159,500 shares came in a single block.

Great A&P was second most active, off 1/8 at 28 5/8 on 151,800 shares, of which 134,600 came in a single block.

Eight of the 15 most active stocks rose, five fell and two were unchanged.

Big three auto makers were strong all day in advance of news of auto sales for the middle ten days of May GM was ahead more than 2 points most of the session, closing with a net gain of 1 3/8 at 85 1/8. Ford rose 1 1/4 and Chrysler 1 5/8.

After the close came news that auto sales bounced back after an early May dip but were still behind the 1965 mid-May figure.

Xerox rose 6 3/8 IBM ex dividend 6 3/8, Douglas Aircraft 2 3/8, Eastern Air Lines 1 7/8, Illinois Central 1 1/4, Du Pont 2 1/4, Kennecott 3 3/4 and General Electric 3 3/8.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer gained 2 3/4 in advance of a dividend hike. Amid news of raised dividends, Bucyrus-Erie new rose 1, Moore & McCormack rose 1 3/8, Indian Head Mills advanced 1 5/8 and Glidden lost 1/4.

Korvette advanced 1 3/4 despite a management shakeup.

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange. Volume was 2.21 million shares compared with 2.13 million Monday.

Corporate bonds were mostly unchanged. U.S. Treasury bonds were lower.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

New Economics On Trial, John Galbraith Contends

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

The New Economics, according to one of its widely publicized advocates John Kenneth Galbraith, Harvard economist and former New Frontier adviser, is on trial.

Rukeyser

In a recent pronouncement, this articulate exponent of Keynesian soft money economics brought up to date, raised certain practical questions for those hard boiled realists who are currently seeking to appraise the outlook for stock prices and for business profits.

The Keynesians have their own vocabulary, and tend to confuse currency inflation with liberalism. In any authentic sense, liberalism connotes personal freedom, including the extremely important liberty of the customer to make his own choices. In the new word usage of this school, manipulation by politicians and their economic advisers is put forth as management.

Thus, in an article in the New York Times, Dr. Galbraith writes, in commenting on whether taxes should be raised now to curb inflation: "For, waiting in the wings, one imagines, are those who will seize upon failure to act on taxes now, to discredit the whole effort to manage demand."

This reference to managing demand is a euphemism for transferring freedom of choice at the market place from tens of millions of family heads and housewives to bureaucrats at the nation's capital. The implication is that the bureaucracy can make selection much more astutely than the people themselves. This resembles the totalitarian approach where little commissars in big jobs are invested with the decision-making power.

Customer Is Boss

On the other hand, free enterprise—the American competitive system — is based on recognition by businessmen that the customer is the boss, and that he must be pleased if the businessman is to succeed. Goods and prices are being perpetually tested in the open market, which determines the rationing of the nation's economic resources, including the capacity to make things.

In the ancient wheeze about the Communist agitator, this principle of managing demand was dramatized. The demagogue shouted: "Come the revolution and you'll all eat strawberries." One dissenter in the crowd retorted: "But I don't like strawberries." The speaker dogmatized: "Come the revolution and you'll eat strawberries."

Dr. Galbraith earned rich royalties in his economic best seller entitled "The Affluent Society" in which by implication he downgraded the freedom of the customer to choose. He referred to the marketplace where businessmen deal with voluntary customers as the "private sector."

He thought that the American "private sector" was relatively too big, and what he called the "public sector" (the activity of government) was relatively too small. He advocated relatively expanding the government sector.

In human terms, this would merely increase the area where government exercises compulsion, while narrowing the voluntary sphere in which individuals make their own selections.

Sub-Schools

Apparently the self styled new economists are subdividing into cults. In describing the sub-schools, Dr. Galbraith revealed that he had dissented from the advice given to the administration in 1964 to cut tax rates in order to expand public demand for goods and services. "The division," Dr. Galbraith disclosed, "was not between the Keynesian and those who would balance the budgets and advise fiscal orthodoxy. It was within the modern group between those who thought that tax reduction was the most expedious way of expanding income and those who believed it a one-way street to a highly liberal result.

"In the latter view, taxes, once reduced, could not in the event of need be increased."

Dr. Galbraith went on to make a pitch for expanding the economy through increasing government spending.

Dr. Galbraith advocates management by bureaucrats, which means manipulation. He is against correction by what he terms as accidents such as a collapse in stock prices. He overlooks the fact that in a competitive market we don't all make the same mistakes simultaneously, and, when dominant groups go to excesses, then the principles of the market place effectuate correction.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries with stamped self-addressed envelope concerning their financial problems in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.)

80-Year-Old Walthill Man Severely Burned

Both hands and his right arm were badly burned. He was expected to be hospitalized for several weeks.

Grain Futures Market Weak

Chicago (AP)—The grain futures market closed without a single gainer Tuesday but it still retained a good deal of the broad advances of Monday.

Brokers said the weakness was almost entirely a consequence of profit cashing which developed slowly when it became apparent that the demand of the previous session had been exhausted.

Soybeans lost more than 2 cents at the extreme but the grains were off a cent or less, mostly major fractions. At its best, the July soybean delivery was equal to the season high. However, it finished down 1½ from the previous close.

At the close, wheat was ½-⅞ cent a bushel lower, July $1.63⅛-¼; corn ⅛-⅝ lower, July $1.27; oats ⅜-⅝ lower, July 68¾ cents; rye ¾ to 1 cent lower, July $1.22½; soybeans ¾-2¼ lower, July $3.08½-⅝.

Stock Market's Rise Continues

New York (AP)—The stock market Tuesday stretched its recovery drive through its third straight daily session. Trading was moderately active.

Volume was 7.22 million sales compared with 7.1 million Monday.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 5.95 to 888.41. The closing figure was the day's lowest reading and considerably below the highest of 892.98 in late morning, at which point the average was up 10.52.

When the stocks were at their height for the day, one analyst commented that the rise was "too swift" and that it would be healthier if the market took its recovery in smaller daily doses.

At its peak, incidentally, the Dow industrials were bumping close to the 900 level which now looms as a technical resistance level to further advance.

At its best level, the market was one of the best examples this year of an all-around advance, with blue chips and glamor stocks in gear. The auto stocks were strong, along with oils, electrical equipments, nonferrous metals and other wheelhorses. The high-flying airlines, aerospace issues, color televisions, office equipments and the like also were well ahead.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 2.4 to 324.2 with industrials up 3.9, rails up 1.8 and utilities up .1.

Of 1,403 issues traded, 839 rose and 318 fell. Highs for the year totaled 16 and lows 49. New York State Electric & Gas was the most active stock unchanged at 39 on 164,100 shares, of which 159,500 shares came in a single block.

Great A&P was second most active, off ⅛ at 29⅝ on 151,800 shares, of which 134,600 came in a single block.

Eight of the 15 most active stocks rose, five fell and two were unchanged.

Big three auto makers were strong all day in advance of news of auto sales for the middle ten days of May. GM was ahead more than 2 points most of the session, closing with a net gain of 1⅞ at 83⅞. Ford rose 1¼ and Chrysler 1⅝.

After the close came news that auto sales bounced back after an early May dip but were still behind the 1965 mid-May figure.

Xerox rose 6⅝, IBM ex dividend 6⅝, Douglas Aircraft 2⅝, Eastern Air Lines 1⅞, Illinois Central 1¼, Du Pont 2¼, Kennecott 3¼ and General Electric 3⅛.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer gained 2¾ in advance of a dividend hike. Amid news of raised dividends, Bucyrus-Erie new rose 1. Moore & McCormack rose 1⅝. Indian Head Mills advanced 1⅝ and Glidden lost ¼.

Korvette advanced 1¼ despite a management shakeup.

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange. Volume was 2.21 million shares compared with 2.13 million Monday.

Corporate bonds were mostly unchanged. U.S. Treasury bonds were lower.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

New Economics On Trial, John Galbraith Contends

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

Rukeyser

The New Economics, according to one of its widely publicized advocates John Kenneth Galbraith, Harvard economist and former New Frontier adviser, is on trial.

In a recent pronouncement, this articulate exponent of Keynesian soft money economics brought up to date, raised certain practical questions for those hard boiled realists who are currently seeking to appraise the outlook for stock prices and for business profits.

The Keynesians have their own vocabulary, and tend to confuse currency inflation with liberalism. In any authentic sense, liberalism connotes personal freedom, including the extremely important liberty of the customer to make his own choices. In the new word usage of this school, manipulation by politicians and their economic advisers is put forth as management.

Thus, in an article in the New York Times, Dr. Galbraith writes, in commenting on whether taxes should be raised now to curb inflation: "For, waiting in the wings, one imagines, are those who will seize upon failure to act on taxes now, to discredit the whole effort to manage demand."

This reference to managing demand is a euphemism for transferring freedom of choice at the market place from tens of millions of family heads and housewives to bureaucrats at the nation's capital. The implication is that the bureaucracy can make selection much more astutely than the people themselves. This resembles the totalitarian approach where little commissars in big jobs are invested with the decision-making power.

Customer Is Boss

On the other hand, free enterprise—the American competitive system — is based on recognition by businessmen that the customer is the boss, and that he must be pleased if the businessman is to succeed. Goods and prices are being perpetually tested in the open market, which determines the rationing of the nation's economic resources, including the capacity to make things.

In the ancient wheeze about the Communist agitator, this principle of managing demand was dramatized. The demagogue shouted: "Come the revolution and you'll all eat strawberries." One dissenter in the crowd retorted: "But I don't like strawberries." The speaker dogmatized: "Come the revolution and you'll eat strawberries."

Dr. Galbraith earned rich royalties in his economic best seller entitled "The Affluent Society" in which by implication he downgraded the freedom of the customer to choose. He referred to the marketplace where businessmen deal with voluntary customers as the "private sector."

He thought that the American "private sector" was relatively too big, and what he called the "public sector" (the activity of government) was relatively too small. He advocated relatively expanding the government sector.

In human terms, this would merely increase the area where government exercises compulsion, while narrowing the voluntary sphere in which individuals make their own selections.

Sub-Schools

Apparently the self styled new economists are subdividing into cults. In describing the sub-schools, Dr. Galbraith revealed that he had dissented from the advice given to the administration in 1964 to cut tax rates in order to expand public demand for goods and services. "The division," Dr. Galbraith disclosed, "was not between the Keynesian and those who would balance the budgets and advise fiscal orthodoxy. It was within the modern group between those who thought that tax reduction was the most expedious way of expanding income and those who believed it a one-way street to a highly liberal result.

"In the latter view, taxes, once reduced, could not in the event of need be increased."

Dr. Galbraith went on to make a pitch for expanding the economy through increasing government spending.

Dr. Galbraith advocates management by bureaucrats, which means manipulation. He is against correction by what he terms as accidents such as a collapse in stock prices. He overlooks the fact that in a competitive market we don't all make the same mistakes simultaneously, and, when dominant groups go to excesses, then the principles of the market place effectuate correction.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries with stamped self-addressed envelope concerning their financial problems in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.)

80-Year-Old Walthill Man Severely Burned

Pender (UPI)—John Crum, 80, Walthill, was recovering at a hospital here from third degree burns received when his clothing caught fire as he was burning trash at his home.

Both hands and his right arm were badly burned. He was expected to be hospitalized for several weeks.

Grain Futures Market Weak

Chicago (AP)—The grain futures market closed without a single gainer Tuesday but it still retained a good deal of the broad advances of Monday.

Brokers said the weakness was almost entirely a consequence of profit cashing which developed slowly when it became apparent that the demand of the previous session had been exhausted.

Soybeans lost more than 2 cents at the extreme but the grains were off a cent or less, mostly major fractions. At its best, the July soybean delivery was equal to the season high. However, it finished down 1½ from the previous close.

At the close, wheat was ¾ a cent a bushel lower, July $1.63⅛-¼; corn ¾-⅝ lower, July $1.27; oats ⅜-⅝ lower, July 68⅛ cents; rye ¾ to 1 cent lower, July $1.22½; soybeans ¾-2¼ lower, July $3.08½-⅝.

Improved Nike X Can Defend All U.S., Missile Man Says

New York (AP)—The Nike X system has been improved to the point where it not only can destroy hostile satellites but can provide a defensive cover for the entire nation, a top missile scientist said Tuesday.

Heretofore, the system has been commonly regarded as a means of protecting cities or vital military installations from long range ballistic missile attacks.

Dr. Oswald H. Lange, chief scientist for the Nike X project office at the Redstone Arsenal in Alabama, talked in guarded terms of the new capabilities at a convention of the Aviation-Space Writers Association.

Heavily Scissored

Some of Lange's prepared speech washeavily scissored for security reasons.

President Johnson mentioned in a speech last September that the United States had developed a weapon capable of intercepting satellites.

The next day, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara identified it as the Nike X, but gave no further details.

Lange, explaining that the Nike X system would employ two interceptors — the long-range Zeus and short-range high-acceleration Sprint, both solid-propellant missiles with nuclear capability — added:

"Zeus is a carry over from the Nike-Zeus system which already has proved itself capable of intercepting both ICBM targets and satellites in orbit."

Reds Increase ICBMs

Meanwhile, it was announced in Washington that Russia has modestly increased during the past year its force of intercontinental ballistic missiles aimed at the United States.

No numbers were given, but U.S. officials said the American advantage of about three or four to one in ICBM's "has not been altered."

Presumably, the Soviet Union has now passed the 300 mark for such in-place missiles. A year ago, U.S. officials were using a rough figure of about 270 ICBM's for Russia, and 190 the year before.

TO EV FROM HUBERT

Senate Republican leader Everett Dirksen of Illinois shows off a gift from Democratic Vice President Hubert Humphrey—a pair of fighting elephants—which were given to him Tuesday on his return to active participation on the Capitol scene. Dirksen, on crutches, left Walter Reed Army Hospital where he was treated for the fracture of a thigh bone.

Subsidies For Japan Bound Wheat Urged

Washington (UPI)—Spokesmen for wheat growers conferred Tuesday with Agriculture Department officials about the possibility of government subsidies for wheat shipped to the west coast en route to Japan.

The delegation included Ray Stack, Lincoln, Neb., marketing economist, and Ronald Maas, Potter, vice president, of the Nebraska Wheat Growers Association and Fred Lush, Albin, Wyo., representing the Wyoming Wheat Growers Association.

The 40 million bushels of wheat Japan formerly bought annually from the Commodity Credit Corporation now must come from private stocks, they said. But, they contended, freight rates from the wheat plains to the west coast are not competitive with those to gulf ports. If the railroads will not or cannot profitably cut their rates to the west, a government subsidy should be provided, according to the growers.

"If Japan can't buy through Portland, Ore., it won't go to the gulf ports because of the 11 day additional shipping time," Lush said.

"Japan will buy from Canada, and we will lose the cash sale."

Register Of Merit Cattle Show Due At Nebraska Fair

The first national register of merit Hereford cattle show of the 1966-67 season will be one of the highlights of the State Fair Sept. 2-8.

Fair board manager Henry Brandt said about 400 entries are expected from throughout the country. They will compete for register of merit points and $15,000 in premium money.

Brandt said the Nebraska show will be one of five register of merit events this year.

The register of merit was started by the American Hereford Association in 1927 as a means of recognizing the sires and dams of winning show animals.

Bulls must earn 100 points and females 25 points to receive a rating.

Audubon's Book Brings $60,000

New York (UPI) — A splendid four-volume set of the elephant folio edition of Audubon's "Birds of America" was sold at auction Tuesday for $60,000 to a New York dealer.

The dealer, J. N. Bartfield, was believed to have paid a record price for what is generally considered the most famous printed book by an American. The last elephant folio edition sold at auction was knocked down at Sotheby's in London in 1959 for $36,400.

The set sold Tuesday at the Parke-Bernet Galleries was put up for sale by the American Academy of Arts and Letters, to which it was given by the late philanthropist Archer Huntington. The donor's widow, sculpturess Anna Hyatt Huntington, had suggested its sale to raise funds for aged, needy authors.

President Signs Finance Pool Bill

Washington (AP) — President Johnson signed Tuesday legislation authorizing the sale of pooled participations in mortgages and other financial assets the federal government owns.

The Senate completed congressional passage of the bill Monday.

The government expects to sell about $4.2 billion of mortgages and loans in the fiscal year starting July 1. This would result in an equal reduction in next year's budget deficit.

YOU MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS AND NOT KNOW IT

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms...ugly parasites that medical experts say infest 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Improved Nike X Can Defend All U.S., Missile Man Says

New York AP—The Nike X system has been improved to the point where it not only can destroy hostile satellites but can provide a defensive cover for the entire nation, a top missile scientist said Tuesday.

Heretofore, the system has been commonly regarded as a means of protecting cities or vital military installations from long range ballistic missile attacks.

Dr. Oswald H. Lange, chief scientist for the Nike X project office at the Redstone Arsenal in Alabama, talked in guarded terms of the new capabilities at a convention of the Aviation-Space Writers Association.

Heavily Scissored

Some of Lange's prepared speech washeavily scissored for security reasons.

President Johnson mentioned in a speech last September that the United States had developed a weapon capable of intercepting satellites.

The next day, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara identified it as the Nike X, but gave no further details.

Lange, explaining that the Nike X system would employ two interceptors — the long-range Zeus and short-range high-acceleration Sprint, both solid-propellant missiles with nuclear capability — added:

"Zeus is a carry over from the Nike-Zeus system which already has proved itself capable of intercepting both ICBM targets and satellites in orbit."

Reds Increase ICBMs

Meanwhile, it was announced in Washington that Russia has modestly increased during the past year its force of intercontinental ballistic missiles aimed at the United States.

No numbers were given, but U.S. officials said the American advantage of about three or four to one in ICBM's "has not been altered."

Presumably, the Soviet Union has now passed the 300 mark for such in-place missiles. A year ago, U.S. officials were using a rough figure of about 270 ICBM's for Russia, and 190 the year before.

TO EV FROM HUBERT

Senate Republican leader Everett Dirksen of Illinois shows off a gift from Democratic Vice President Hubert Humphrey—a pair of fighting elephants—which were given to him Tuesday on his return to active participation on the Capitol scene. Dirksen, on crutches, left Walter Reed Army Hospital where he was treated for the fracture of a thigh bone.

Subsidies For Japan Bound Wheat Urged

Washington (UPI)—Spokesmen for wheat growers conferred Tuesday with Agriculture Department officials about the possibility of government subsidies for wheat shipped to the west coast en route to Japan.

The delegation included Ray Stack, Lincoln, Neb., marketing economist, and Ronald Maas, Potter, vice president, of the Nebraska Wheat Growers Association and Fred Lush, Albin, Wyo., representing the Wyoming Wheat Growers Association.

The 40 million bushels of wheat Japan formerly bought annually from the Commodity Credit Corporation now must come from private stocks, they said. But, they contended, freight rates from the wheat plains to the west coast are not competitive with those to gulf ports. If the railroads will not or cannot profitably cut their rates to the west, a government subsidy should be provided, according to the growers.

"If Japan can't buy through Portland, Ore., it won't go to the gulf ports because of the 11 day additional shipping time," Lush said.

"Japan will buy from Canada, and we will lose the cash sale."

Register Of Merit Cattle Show Due At Nebraska Fair

The first national register of merit Hereford cattle show of the 1966-67 season will be one of the highlights of the State Fair Sept. 2-8.

Fair board manager Henry Brandt said about 400 entries are expected from throughout the country. They will compete for register of merit points and $15,000 in premium money.

Brandt said the Nebraska show will be one of five register of merit events this year.

The register of merit was started by the American Hereford Association in 1927 as a means of recognizing the sires and dams of winning show animals.

Bulls must earn 100 points and females 25 points to receive a rating.

Audubon's Book Brings $60,000

New York (UPI) — A splendid four-volume set of the elephant folio edition of Audubon's "Birds of America" was sold at auction Tuesday for $60,000 to a New York dealer.

The dealer, J. N. Bartfield, was believed to have paid a record price for what is generally considered the most famous printed book by an American. The last elephant folio edition sold at auction was knocked down at Sotheby's in London in 1959 for $36,400.

The set sold Tuesday at the Parke-Bernet Galleries was put up for sale by the American Academy of Arts and Letters, to which it was given by the late philanthropist Archer Huntington. The donor's widow, sculpturess Anna Hyatt Huntington, had suggested its sale to raise funds for aged, needy authers.

President Signs Finance Pool Bill

Washington AP — President Johnson signed Tuesday legislation authorizing the sale of pooled participations in mortgages and other financial assets the federal government owns.

The Senate completed congressional passage of the bill Monday.

The government expects to sell about $4.2 billion of mortgages and loans in the fiscal year starting July 1. This would result in an equal reduction in next year's budget deficit.

YOU MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS
AND NOT KNOW IT

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms... ugly parasites that medical experts say infest 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . small, easy-to-take tablets . . . special sizes for children and adults.

MOVING, MUST SELL AT ONCE. You must see to believe. A famous place in Nebraska. Three National authorities have said "It's out of this world." "The most beautiful place in the Midwest including Colorado," "I've traveled all the rivers in the world and never seen so beautiful sight from any." 80 acres, 2 houses—1 new and with perhaps more modern features, indoor & outdoor, than any house in Nebraska. And the most beautiful view. The other, a little older but renovated last year in fashion similar to a new house. Three parts of this land: 1 tillable farm area. 1 Nebraska's largest, young apple orchard with similarly beautiful home building site, and 4,000 apple trees. All have pastures & horse care & riding facilities. Includes all machinery necessary, all horse equipment, 3 corals, riding area, 2 wells, white board fencing, lake, irrigation facilities, many extra buildings & resources and many other fruit, pine, oak, elm & nut trees, & flowers & shrubs throughout. Will sell by 3rds or totals, all under appraised value. Open house anytime but Monday morning. 30 minutes South of Omaha, 40 minutes East of Lincoln, all borders Hwys. 73-75. Has improved roads on land. Call Union, Nebr. 263-3315. 25

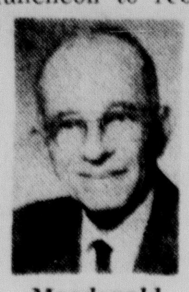
Anniversary Gathering Honors Macdonald



Macdonald

Bill Macdonald, widely recognized as the man from his farm on Blackbird Row, was honored Tuesday with a 40th anniversary luncheon to recognize his many years in radio.

His sponsors, KFOR Radio, noted where Macdonald has served as sponsor for one program the past 26 years.

George S. Round, director of information at the University of Nebraska, said, "Bill Macdonald has told the story of the use in scientific agriculture that has covered the eras of electrification, tractors, air conditioning, hybrid seed and the many changes that have taken place during his years of radio."

Radio KFOR is designating Wednesday as "Bill Macdonald Day" in a day long program.

Macdonald in responding to colleagues and friends who surprised him at a luncheon where his name was listed on the hotel marquee said,

"The past is prologue, we don't dare look back. I'm not completing 40 years, I am starting my 41st year."

Macdonald noted where on one of his programs he has used an estimated five million words, and that in his 40 years of radio it was but just a week ago that he lost his voice for the first time.

Albino Rattlesnake Complete With White Eye Found Near Gothenburg

Lincoln Star Special

Gothenburg — Rattlesnakes aren't too uncommon in this vicinity, but the albino variety is a rarity.

Recently Mrs. Jim Ostergard, who resides on a ranch north of Gothenburg, was working in her yard early one morning when she spotted a curled up snake, bearing bleached out coloring. With the aid of her daughter, Yolanda, Mrs. Ostergard quickly chopped off the snake's head.

Upon examination they found the snake was a very light cream color, completely devoid of markings, a bit shorter but thicker than most snakes of this age, carrying six rattles. It had the white eye of an albino.

The snake was taken to the Gothenburg High School biology teacher for further examination and study by students.

Anniversary Gathering Honors Macdonald

Macdonald

Bill Macdonald, widely recognized as the man from his farm on Blackbird Row, was honored Tuesday with a 40th anniversary luncheon to recognize his many years in radio.

His sponsors, KFOR Radio, noted where Macdonald has served as sponsor for one program the past 26 years.

George S. Round, director of information at the University of Nebraska, said, "Bill Macdonald has told the story of the use in scientific agriculture that has covered the eras of electrification, tractors, air conditioning, hybrid seed and the many changes that have taken place during his years of radio."

Radio KFOR is designating Wednesday as "Bill Macdonald Day" in a day long program.

Macdonald in responding to colleagues and friends who surprised him at a luncheon where his name was listed on the hotel marquee said.

"The past is prologue, we don't dare look back. I'm not completing 40 years, I am starting my 41st year."

Macdonald noted where on one of his programs he has used an estimated five million words, and that in his 40 years of radio it was but just a week ago that he lost his voice for the first time.

Albino Rattlesnake Complete With White Eye Found Near Gothenburg

Lincoln Star Special

Gothenburg — Rattlesnakes aren't too uncommon in this vicinity, but the albino variety is a rarity.

Recently Mrs. Jim Ostergard, who resides on a ranch north of Gothenburg, was working in her yard early one morning when she spotted a curled up snake, bearing bleached out coloring. With the aid of her daughter, Yolanda, Mrs. Ostergard quickly chopped off the snake's head.

Upon examination they found the snake was a very light cream color, completely devoid of markings, a bit shorter but thicker than most snakes of this age, carrying six rattles. It had the white eye of an albino.

The snake was taken to the Gothenburg High School biology teacher for further examination and study by students.
